

NOTHING HAPPENS

Chantal Akerman's Hyperrealist Everyday

Ivone Margulies

Duke University Press Durham and London 1996

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments ix

Chantal Akerman's Films: The Politics of the Singular 1

- 1 NOTHING HAPPENS Time for the Everyday in Postwar Realist Cinema 21
 - Charting the Everyday in Postwar Europe 24
 - A Realism of Surfaces: Bazin and Neorealist Film 27
 - From Surface to Structure: Barthes, Godard, and the Textualization of Reality 33
 - Beyond Cinematic Positivism: The Antirescue Cinema of Andy Warhol 36

- 2 TOWARD A CORPOREAL CINEMA Theatricality in the '70s 42
 - The United States in Real Time: Minimal, Hyperreal, and Structural 48
 - Quotation Reconsidered: European "Theatrical" Cinema 54

- 3 THE EQUIVALENCE OF EVENTS Jeanne Dielman, 23 Quai du Commerce, 1080 Bruxelles 65
 - Excess Description: Robbe-Grillet and Cinematic Hyperrealism 69
 - Bracketing Drama: The Other Scene 73

vi Contents

	The Murder, and, and, and . . . : An Aesthetics of Homogeneity	80
	The Automaton: Agency and Causality in Jeanne Dielman	88
4	EXPANDING THE “I” Character in Experimental Feminist Narrative	100
	The Lure of Center in Rainer’s Work: A Cautionary Tale	104
	The Eroded Index: Liminality in Je tu il elle	109
	An Alogical, Fitful, Evidence	112
	“Here Is”: Redundant Description	118
	A Mock Centrality: An A-individual Singularity	121
5	“HER” AND JEANNE DIELMAN Type as Commerce	128
	For Example, “Her”: Godard and the “Natural” Sign	131
	Jeanne Dielman : An Exceptional Typicality	140
6	FORMS OF ADDRESS Epistolary Performance, Monologue, and Bla Bla Bla	149
	Epistolary Performance: News from Home	150
	Talk-Blocks: Meetings with Anna	154
	Postscript: The Man with the Suitcase and A Filmmaker’s Letter	161
	What is Wrong with Signing? A Filmmaker’s Letter	166
7	THE RHYTHM OF CLICHÉ Akerman into the ’90s	171
	Eight Times “Oui”: Singularity in Toute une nuit	173
	Night and Day and Night : The Cycle Revisited	182
	So Let’s Sing: The Eighties and Window Shopping	185
	Echoes from the East: Histoires D’Amérique and D’Est	192
	To Conclude: It Is Time	204
	Filmography	213
	Notes	215
	Bibliography	247
	Index	263