

IN OCEANIA

Visions, Artifacts, Histories

Nicholas Thomas

Duke University Press Durham and London 1997

CONTENTS

List of Figures	ix
Acknowledgments	xv
Introduction: Tupaia's Map	i

PART I: VISIONS OF HISTORY AND ANTHROPOLOGY

- 1 Partial Texts: Representation, Colonialism, and Agency in Pacific History 23
- 2 Alejandro Mayta in Fiji: Narratives about Millenarianism, Colonialism, Postcolonial Politics, and Custom 50

PART II: COLONIAL IMAGES AND NARRATIVES

- 3 Liberty and Licence: New Zealand Societies in Cook Voyage Anthropology 71
- 4 Objects of Knowledge: Oceanic Artifacts in European Engravings 93
- 5 Melanesians and Polynesians: Ethnic Typifications inside and outside Anthropology 133
- 6 Fear and Loathing in the South Pacific: Colonial and Postcolonial History in Popular Fiction 156

PART III: BEYOND THE INVENTION OF TRADITION

- 7 Tin and Thatch 171
- 8 The Inversion of Tradition 186
- 9 Contrasts: Marriage and Identity in Western Fiji 210

Epilogue: From Contrast to Relation 227

Appendix: The Bula Tale Movement 231

Notes 235

References 245

Index 261