

The three crowns

---

Structures of communal politics in early rabbinic Jewry

Stuart A. Cohen

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge

New York Port Chester Melbourne Sydney

CONTENTS

---

Acknowledgements	page ix
Note on transliteration and translation	xi
List of abbreviations	xii
Introduction	1
1. The concept of the three ketarim	7
Section A: Versions of the past: visions of the future
2. Institutions and their instruments	31
3. History as propaganda: the rabbinic version	58
4. Other positions, other priorities	89
Section B: From theory to practice: the struggle for supremacy
5. The first phase (c. 135 B. C. E. – c. 100 C. E.)	121
6. Rabbis and priests (c. 100 C. E. – c. 300 C. E.)	147
7. Rabbis and appointed rulers (c. 100 C. E. – c. 400 C. E.)	179
Section C: Ensuring hegemony
8. The institutionalisation of rabbinic authority	215
9. Patterns of succession and pageants of installation	235
Afterword: a symbol and its resonance	264
Bibliography	269
Index	288