

National Security in the Third World

The Management of Internal and External Threats

Edited by

Edward E. Azar

University of Maryland

and

Chung-in Moon

University of Kentucky

EDWARD ELGAR

Center for International Development and Conflict Management,
University of Maryland.

Contents

Notes on Contributors	vi
1. Rethinking Third World National Security Edward E. Azar and Chung-in Moon	1
2. People, States and Fear: The National Security Problem in the Third World Barry Buzan	14
3. Simple Labels and Complex Realities: National Security for the Third World Davis B. Bobrow and Steve Chan	44
4. Legitimacy, Integration and Policy Capacity: The 'Software' Side of Third World National Security Edward E. Azar and Chung-in Moon	77
5. Ideology and Security: Self-Reliance in China and North Korea Han S. Park and Kyung A. Park	102
6. Economic Development and National Security Ethan B. Kapstein	136
7. Arms Acquisition and National Security: The Irony of Military Strength Andrew L. Ross	152
8. National Security Regimes and Human Rights Abuse: Argentina's Dirty Wars Carlos Egan	188
9. Regime Legitimacy and National Security: The Case of Pahlavi Iran Mark J. Gasiorowski	227
10. Managing National Security: The American Experience and Lessons for the Third World R.D. McLaurin	251
11. Towards an Alternative Conceptualization Edward E. Azar and Chung-in Moon	277
Index	299