

Privatization in the Transition to a Market Economy

Studies of Preconditions and Policies in Eastern Europe

Edited by
John S. Earle, Roman Frydman and Andrzej Rapaczynski

Pinter Publishers
London

Published in Association with the Central European University

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction: Privatization policies in Eastern Europe: diverse routes to a market economy John S. Earle, Roman Frydman, and Andrzej Rapaczynski	1
Part I: Preconditions
1 Property rights in a socialist economy: the case of Hungary. László Szakadát	17
2 Preconditions for privatization in Czechoslovakia, 1990–92 Michal Mejstřík and Jiří Hlávaček	46
3 The decision-making structure of Polish privatization Jan Szomburg	75
Part II: Privatization plans, policies, and results
4 Spontaneous privatization in Hungary Eva Voszka	89
5 The role and impact of the legislature in Hungary's privatization László Urbán	108
6 The different paths of privatization: Czechoslovakia, 1990–? Jan Mladek	121
7 Privatization in a hypercentralized economy: the case of Romania John S. Earle and Dana Sápátoru	147
8 Small privatization in Poland: an inside view Piotr Tamowicz	171

Part III: The stock market and foreign capital: some evidence from Hungary

9	Evolution of the Hungarian capital market: the Budapest Stock Exchange Kálmán Mészáros	187
10	Foreign capital in Hungary's privatization Tivadár Faur	203
	Index	215