

Tom Clark

A Case for Irony in Beowulf, with particular reference to its epithets

PETER LANG

Bern · Berlin · Bruxelles · Frankfurt a.M. · New York · Oxford · Wien

Table of contents

Acknowledgements.....	7
Abstract.....	9
Glossary of terms.....	11
Note on quotations and translations.....	13
Introduction.....	15
PART I. IRONY AND THE CONTRASTIVE IN BEOWULF.....	39
Chapter 1. Contrastive poetics and the use of irony.....	41
Chapter 2. Words and deeds: a case study in discerning irony.....	59
Chapter 3. Alpha and Omega.....	69
Chapter 4. Litotes and the negative in Beowulf	93
PART II. THE IRONICAL EPITHETS IN BEOWULF.....	107
Chapter 5. A methodology for reading irony in the epithets of Beowulf	109
Chapter 6. Annotated list of the ironic epithets in Beowulf	141
Chapter 7. Approaches to a taxonomy of the ironic epithets in Beowulf	251
Conclusion.....	287
Bibliography.....	293