

WAR AND SOCIETY

The militarisation of South Africa

edited by

JACKLYN COCK & LAURIE NATHAN

David Philip: Cape Town & Johannesburg

Contents

- List of Contributors vii
List of Abbreviations ix
Foreword by Frank Chikane xi
Preface xiii
Introduction by Jacklyn Cock 1

PART I: The nature and role of the South African Defence Force

- 1 The nuts and bolts of military power: the structure of the SADF, by Mark Phillips 16
- 2 Platskiet-politiek: the role of the Union Defence Force 1910–1924, by Marian Lacey 28
- 3 The power to defend: an analysis of various aspects of the Defence Act, by Kathy Satchwell 40
- 4 Manpower and militarisation: women and the SADF, by Jacklyn Cock 51
- 5 Troops in the townships, 1984–1987, by Laurie Nathan 67
- 6 The psychological experiences of white conscripts in the black townships, by Diane Sandler 79
- 7 The South African Defence Force in Namibia, by Tony Weaver 90
- 8 The SADF's covert war against Mozambique, by Rob Davies 103
- 9 The South African Defence Force in Angola, by Jeremy Grest 116

PART II: Militarisation and political power

- 10 State power in the 1980s: from 'total strategy' to 'counter-revolutionary warfare', by Mark Swilling & Mark Phillips 134
- 11 South Africa's National Management System, by James Selfe 149
- 12 The militarisation of urban controls: the security management system in Mamelodi, 1986–1988, by Andrew Boraine 159
- 13 The militarisation of the bantustans: control and contradictions, by Carole Cooper 174
- 14 Vigilantes and militarisation of South Africa, by Nicholas Haysom 188

PART III: Militarisation and the economy

- 15 The private sector and the security establishment, by Kate Philip 202

vi Contents

- 16 The politics and economics of the armaments industry in South Africa, by Graeme Simpson 217
17 Apartheid's army and the arms embargo, by William Cobbett 232
18 Defence expenditure and arms procurement in South Africa, by Sean Archer 244

PART IV: Militarisation and culture

- 19 A 'battlefield of perceptions': state discourses on political violence, 1985-1988, by Deborah Posel 262
20 Works of friction: current South African war literature, by H. E. Koornhof 275
21 Classrooms of war: the militarisation of white South African schooling, by Gavin Evans 283
22 Shopping for war: an analysis of consumerist militarism, by Karen Jochelson & Fran Buntman 298

PART V: Militarisation and resistance

- 23 'Marching to a different beat': the history of the End Conscription Campaign, by Laurie Nathan 308
24 Waging peace: church resistance to militarisation, by Harald E. Winkler & Laurie Nathan 324

References 338

Bibliography 346

Index 355