

Industry and ideology

IG Farben in the Nazi era

Peter Hayes
Northwestern University

0

Cambridge University Press

Cambridge
New York New Rochelle
Melbourne Sydney

Contents

List of illustrations	page ix
Preface	xi
Acknowledgments	xx
Abbreviations	xxii
Sources and citations	xxiv
 Part I The nascent concern, 1860-1933	 1
1 Origins and organization	7
2 The search for stability	32
 Part II The national revival, 1933-1936	 69
3 Revolution and reflation	81
4 From Schacht to Göring	125
 Part III The nervous years, 1936-1939	 163
5 Autarky and atomization	175
 Part IV The Nazi empire, 1938-1944	 213
6 Greater Germany	219
7 The New Order	266
 Part V The nature of war, 1939-1945	 319
8 Commerce and complicity	325
 Epilogue	 377
 Appendixes	 385
A Manufacturing plants and mines of IG Farben, 1929	386
B Organization of IG Farben, 1931	388
C Initial structure of the Four Year Plan, 1936	389
D Militarization of IG Farben's investments	390
E Organization of IG Farben, 1938-1945	391
F Organization of Berlin NW7, 1937	392
G Holdings of DAG, Bratislava, showing the transfers following the Anschluss	393

H	Locations of plants of SWW and DAG, Bratislava	394
I	Reich's plan for Norwegian light-metals development, June 1941	395
	Index	397