

STALLED DEMOCRACY

Capital, Labor, and the Paradox of State-Sponsored Development

EVA BELLIN

Cornell University Press

Ithaca and London

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	i
1. Genesis of the Private Sector in Tunisia: The Logic of State Sponsorship	11
2. The Developmental Paradox: Capital's Emergent Power and Autonomy	46
3. A Checkered Alliance: State Sponsorship of Labor	86
4. Influence under Constraint: The Trajectory of Labor's Power and Autonomy	122
5. Capital and Labor: Agents of Democratization?	144
6. Stalled Democracy in Comparative Perspective	158
Appendix 1 Comparative Wage Rates in Forty-one Countries, 1990	187
Appendix 2 Number of Strikes in Tunisia, 1970-1994	189
Appendix 3 Organizational Structure of the Union Générale de Travailleurs Tunisiens	190
Appendix 4 Membership Numbers in the Union Générale de Travailleurs Tunisiens	191
Notes	193
References	217
Index	233