

Monographs of the Finnish Society for Development Studies No 2
Transactions of the Finnish Anthropological Society No 23
Studia Historica 28

PEOPLE AND PRODUCTION
IN LATE PRECOLONIAL
TANZANIA

History and Structures

Juhani Koponen

Finnish Society for Development Studies
Finnish Anthropological Society
Finnish Historical Society in cooperation with
Scandinavian Institute of African Studies

Contents

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	9
GUIDE TO ABBREVIATIONS	11
MAPS	16
1. INTRODUCTION: HISTORY AND HISTORICAL KNOWLEDGE	19
Problems of method: data and facts	23
Sources and data	24
From data to facts: dialogue between concept and evidence	36
This study — a working model of precolonial Tanzania	38
2. ENDOGENOUS AND EXOGENOUS HISTORICAL PROCESSES	46
Endogenous development — the main lines	47
Change from outside: long-distance trade and opening up	53
Zanzibar: the art of buying cheap and selling dear Coast and inland: the emergence of trade routes	68
The Ngoni — a different form of outside influence? ...	76
3. RESTRUCTURING OF TRADE AND SLAVERY	81
The slave trade: towards a quantification	83
Origins and uses of slaves	96
Restructuring of trade and exchange	101
Forms of trade and spheres of exchange	102
Growth of porterage	110
Expansion and change in regional and local trade	117
Currency and cattle	121

4. INTENSIFICATION OF WAR, FAMINE AND DISEASE	126
Famine	127
Causes of famine	136
War	139
Pestilence	150
Endemic diseases and folk defences	153
New epidemics: cholera and smallpox	159
Cattle diseases	168
Combined and differential effects	170
5. SOCIETIES AND SOCIAL STRUCTURES	179
Ethnicity: the fall of the tribal model	180
Societies and their polities	191
Politics and ritual	192
Unification, disintegration and trade	197
Kinship and territory	209
6. PRODUCTION: THE APPROPRIATION OF NATURE	219
Agriculture	220
Systems of cultivation: grain-based and banana-based	221
Long-distance trade, population densities and agriculture	236
Livestock	241
Hunting, gathering, fishing, salt extraction	252
Crafts	257
Ironworking	259
Clothmaking, pottery, woodwork, wickerwork	264
7. SOCIAL ORGANIZATION OF PRODUCTION	268
Groups and relations of production	269
Control of land	271
Communal labour	273
Tax and redistribution	277
Division of labour	281
Underutilization of labour or high labour productivity	292
Modest labour input	292
Aspects of output: pombe and storage	295
Labour-intensive handicrafts	304

8. ASPECTS OF REPRODUCTION	308
Marriage	309
Bride service and bride wealth	311
Fertility control	316
Reproductive rituals	318
Control within marriage	322
Moderate family size	328
Changing forms of servitude: slavery and pawnship ...	333
9. RESIDENCE AND SETTLEMENT	338
Residence	339
Marriage, servitude and residence	339
Age and residence: the Nyakusa puzzle	343
Settlement patterns.....	345
10. CONCLUSION: BEYOND MERRY AND PRIMITIVE	360
Population, cattle and environmental control: local dynamics	361
Barbarous plenty — continuity, change and differentiation	369
Adaptation, accumulation and human needs	382
BIBLIOGRAPHY	392
INDEX	423