Relational Adjectives in Romance and English

Mismatches at Interfaces

Mihaela Marchis Moreno
University of Lisbon

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Contents

List of tables page vii

1 Introduction 1

2 What Does Morphology Learn from Relational Adjectives? 7
- 2.1 Lexicalism versus Syntax–Morphology Interface 7
- 2.2 A Transparent Interface between Syntax and Morphology 10
- 2.3 Theoretical Implications for the Proposed Analysis 12

3 Ontological Semantics: Qualifying versus Relational Adjectives 14
- 3.1 Introduction to the Ontological Semantics of Relational Adjectives 14
- 3.2 The Classification of Adjectives as Prototypical versus Marginal 18
- 3.3 On the Semantics of Adjectives 23
- 3.4 Three Abstract Types of Adjectival Modification: Absolute, Relational and Synthetic 26

4 A Classification of Relational Adjectives across Languages 30
- 4.1 Postal (1969): English Relational Adjectives 31
- 4.2 Levi (1978): English Complex Nominals 33
- 4.3 Bartning (1980): French Relational Adjectives 36
- 4.4 Bosque & Picallo (1996): Spanish Relational Adjectives 40
- 4.5 McNally & Boleda (2004): A Semantic Analysis of Relational Adjectives 43
- 4.6 Fábregas (2007): Spanish Relational Adjectives 46
- 4.7 Alexiadou & Stavrou (2011): Greek Relational Adjectives 48
- 4.8 A Split Classification of Relational Adjectives 50

5 The Morpho-syntactic Analysis of Relational Adjectives 57
- 5.1 The Denominal Nature of Relational Adjectives 58
- 5.2 Counterevidence to the Denominal Character of Relational Adjectives 60
- 5.3 Bare Nouns in Romance 62
- 5.4 Relational Adjectives as Bare Plurals in Romanian and Spanish 65
- 5.5 Thematic Relational Adjectives as Plural/Mass Nouns Expressions 68
- 5.6 Classificatory Adjectives as nPs 73
- 5.7 Evaluative Nouns: Another Case at the Syntax–Morphology Interface 75
- 5.8 Conclusions 81

6 The Syntax of Thematic Adjectives 84
6.1 Introduction 84
6.2 The Position of Genitive Assignment 87
6.3 Thematic Relational Adjectives 95
6.4 Interim Conclusions 99

7 Deverbal Nominalizations 101
7.1 Cornilescu's Approach to Romanian Nominalizations 102
7.2 The Aspectual Interpretation of the NO and NS Structures 105
7.3 Cornilescu's Account of the Dichotomy Infinitive versus Supine 109
7.4 Conclusions 111

8 Thematic Adjectives and Nominalizations 112
8.1 Noun-Object Structures with Th-Adjectives 114
8.2 Noun-Subject Th-Adjectives 127
8.3 The Syntactic Analysis of Noun-Th-ADJ-EA Cluster 142
8.4 Conclusions 148

9 The Syntax of Classificatory Adjectives 151
9.1 Introduction 151
9.2 The Contrastive Context: Classificatory Adjectives and CEL 154
9.3 Classificatory Adjectives and de Modifier Phrases 156
9.4 The Syntactic Analysis of Classificatory Adjectives 158
9.5 Conclusions 161

10 Relational Adjectives as Compounding 163
10.1 Introduction 163
10.2 Subordinate Compounds: A Classification 165
10.3 Attributive Compounding 173
10.4 De Phrases and Relational Adjectives as Compounds: Pros and Cons 180
10.5 Conclusions 186

11 Conclusions and Questions for Future Research 188

References 194
Index 202