

FROM MIMESIS
TO INTERCULTURALISM

Readings of theatrical theory before and after 'modernism'

Graham Ley

UNIVERSITY of EXETER
PRESS

Contents

Preface	ix
---------	----

Part One: Before...

1: The Idea of Sight: Plato and Aristotle

1.1 – PLATO	3
1.1.1 – Plato and the narration of dialogue	3
1.1.2 – Phaedo and the prison-house of the body	4
1.1.3 – Republic (a): narration and imitation in the education of ‘guardians’	10
1.1.4 – Excursus on the meaning of mimesis and cognate terms	17
1.1.5 – Republic (b): mimesis and the corrupting pleasure of sympathy	21
1.2 – ARISTOTLE	27
1.2.1 – Platonic invitation and the Aristotelian treatise	27
1.2.2 – Poetics (a): an anatomy of method	28
1.2.3 – Poetics (b): towards a theory of the emotions	35
1.3 – BETWEEN ACADEMY AND LYCEUM: THE IDEA OF SIGHT	44

2: Performances of the Mind: Rousseau and Diderot

2.1 – ROUSSEAU	52
2.1.1 – The degenerative arts in Rousseau’s academic Discourses	54
2.1.2 – The Letter to d’Alembert	65
2.2 – DIDEROT	74
2.2.1 – The dissatisfactions of Dorval: the Conversations on The Natural Son	75
2.2.2 – The question of a third genre in the third Conversation	79

2.2.3 – The Discourse on Dramatic Poetry	84
2.2.4 – The Paradox on the Actor	91

Part Two: ...and After

3: Brook and the Rhetoric of Theory

3.1 – Metaphor and dismissal in The Empty Space	111
3.2 – The genesis of theory: the ‘Theatre of Cruelty’ season in 1964	122
3.3 – Intertextuality: The Empty Space and Orghast at Persepolis	125
3.4 – Theoretical ‘failure’ and Conference of the Birds	130
3.5 – A metaphoric formula	134
3.6 – Mystery, but no secrets	137

4: Theatre Anthropology

4.1 – VICTOR TURNER	141
4.1.1 – Symbolism and social process: ritual theory and the drama analogy	142
4.1.2 – Further components of a performance theory: ‘liminality’, communitas’ and the ‘social drama’	146
4.1.3 – From ‘liminal’ to ‘liminoid’	153
4.1.4 – Some case studies from an anthropology of performance	166
4.2 – RICHARD SCHECHNER	175
4.2.1 – The eye of theory in Public Domain and Environmental Theater	175
4.2.2 – The discursive figures of performance theory	181
4.2.3 – Cultures and theories transported and transformed	192
4.3 – EUGENIO BARBA	210
4.3.1 – Barba and Grotowski: theatre in the laboratory	210
4.3.2 – Isolation and the “social cell”: the Third Theatre	216

4.3.3 – Going beyond technique: the discourse of a theatre anthropology	229
4.3.4 – Revising the anatomy of theory: later essays	240

Part Three

5: Some Observations on Stanislavski and Brecht

5.1 – STANISLAVSKI	251
5.2 – BRECHT	261

6: The Significance of Theory

6.1 – Disposing of interculturalism: Bharucha, Schechner and Pavis	275
6.2 – A modest look at the discourse of semiology and semiotics: Pavis and de Marinis	287
6.3 – The significance of theory	292

Notes and References	303
-----------------------------	-----

Bibliography	329
---------------------	-----

Index	341
--------------	-----