

The State and Social Transformation
in Tunisia and Libya,
1830–1980

Lisa Anderson

PRINCETON UNIVERSITY PRESS

PRINCETON, NEW JERSEY

Contents

List of Maps	ix
Acknowledgments	xi
Note on Transliteration	xv
Chronology: Tunisia and Libya, 1830–1980	xvii
Introduction	3
PART I EUROPEAN THEORY AND THE NORTH AFRICAN PAST	15
One States, Peasants, and Tribes: State Formation and Rural Transformation	17
Two The North African Landscape on the Eve of Reform	36
PART II PRECOLONIAL REFORM: STATE FORMATION IN THE NINETEENTH CENTURY	57
Three Military Reform: State Formation by Coercion	65
Four Tax Reform and Administrative Reorganization	77
Five Economic Commercialization	96
	vii

CONTENTS

Six	European Occupation: The Social Structures of Collaboration and Resistance	114
PART III	TUNISIA UNDER THE FRENCH: CONTINUITY AND CONSOLIDATION	135
Seven	The Protectorate Reforms: Strengthening the State	141
Eight	Nationalism and Clientelism: The Countryside Mobilized	158
PART IV	LIBYA UNDER THE ITALIANS: DISCONTINUITY AND DISINTEGRATION	179
Nine	Divided Sovereignty and Competing States	185
Ten	Libia Italiana : Tribes Revived	203
PART V	LIBYA AND TUNISIA AFTER INDEPENDENCE: THE CONSEQUENCES OF STATE FORMATION AND DESTRUCTION	223
Eleven	The State Consolidated in Tunisia: Economic Development and Political Authoritarianism	231
Twelve	The State Avoided in Libya: From Rentier Monarchy to Distributive Jamahiriyah	251
Thirteen	State and Society in the Third World: The Lessons of Tunisia and Libya	270
	Glossary of Arabic and Turkish Terms	281
	Bibliographical Note	283
	Selected Bibliography	295
	Index	313