

Being/s in Transit

---

Travelling ∞ Migration ∞ Dislocation

Edited by Liselotte Glage

ASNEL Papers 5

Table of Contents

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS / vii

INTRODUCTION / ix

☞ This Little Piggy; YEG – YYT (Edmonton – St. John’s, Reading Sujata Bhatt)

STAN DRAGLAND / 1

☞ On First Reading Robyn Davidson’s First Journey

PETER STUMMER / 11

☞ To Travel ... Hopefully?/!

KENNETH PARKER / 13

☞ Counter-Travel Writing and Post-Coloniality

GRAHAM HUGGAN / 37

☞ The Ventriloquist’s Tale: Prologue

PAULINE MELVILLE / 61

☞ Floating into Heaven or Hell?

The river journey in Mary Kingsley’s Travels in West Africa
and Joseph Conrad’s Heart of Darkness

SUSANNE STROBEL / 69

☞ One Hundred Years of Darkness

“I am no longer of Monrovia, having relocated into the Heart of the Country”:
Caryl Phillips’s Crossing the River (1993) writing back to Heart of Darkness (1902)

DIETER RIEMENSCHNEIDER / 83

☞ Conrad’s Heart of Darkness and the Anxiety of Empire

INDIRA GHOSE / 93

☞ Cartography, Historiography, and Identity

in Michael Ondaatje’s The English Patient

NICOLA RENGER / 111

- ☞ Imagining Empire's Margins
Land in Rider Haggard's African romances
LINDY STIEBEL / 125
- ☞ Closure and Transgression
in Janette Turner Hospital's Oyster
ANJA I. MÜLLER / 141
- ☞ The Role of Nature in Two Women's Travel Accounts
Appropriation and escape
ULRIKE STAMM / 155
- ☞ When Does an Immigrant Cease to be an Immigrant?
Or: How do you define a New Zealand poet? The case of Peter Bland
PETER H. MARSDEN / 173
- ☞ A "True-True" Voice?
The problem of authenticity
ULRIKE ERICHSEN / 193
- ☞ Sea, Land, Earth
The experience of dislocation in Alistair MacLeod's short stories
UWE ZAGRETZKI / 205
- CONTRIBUTORS / 215