

CHRISTIAN TRADE UNIONS
in the
WEIMAR REPUBLIC,
1918–1933

The Failure of "Corporate Pluralism"

William L. Patch, Jr.

YALE UNIVERSITY PRESS
New Haven and London

Contents

Preface	ix
Introduction	xi
Acronyms	xix
1. THE ORIGINS OF CHRISTIAN TRADE UNIONS IN IMPERIAL GERMANY	1
The Rise of Socialist Anticlericalism	2
Partners or Patrons? Clerical Organizations for Workers	7
The Christian Unions' Struggle for Autonomy	15
The Trade Unions and the War Effort	24
2. THE FOUNDING OF THE WEIMAR REPUBLIC	34
New Channels of Influence for the Christian Unions	35
Broadening the Boundaries of Trade Unionism	45
Efforts to Renovate the Social Order	54
The DGB's Campaign for Party Reform	63
3. THE STABILIZATION CRISIS OF 1923–1924	76
The Erosion of the Spirit of Social Partnership	76
	vii

The Crisis of Parliamentary Government	81
The Revival of Class Consciousness in the Christian Unions	90
4. WELFARE LEGISLATION UNDER THE BÜRGERBLOCK	102
The Christian Unions and the Formation of the Luther Cabinet	102
The Competition between Industrialists and Agrarians for the Support of the DGB	110
The Disintegration of the Bürgerblock	118
5. THE BACKLASH AGAINST TRADE UNIONISM IN THE BOURGEOIS PARTIES	125
The Rise of Alfred Hugenberg	127
The Crisis of Political Catholicism	133
The Ruhr Lockout of November 1928	141
The Schism of the DNVP and the Fall of the Grand Coalition	148
6. DEFLATIONARY ECONOMICS AND TRADE UNIONISM UNDER HEINRICH BRÜNING	157
The Failure of Efforts to Forge a Deflationary Consensus	159
Brüning's Antagonistic Alliance with Organized Labor	166
The Revival of Christian Socialism	176
7. THE RISE OF NATIONAL SOCIALISM	188
Attitudes toward Fascism in the DGB	188
Efforts by the DHV to Strengthen the "Nazi Left"	196
The Christian Unions' Campaign against National Socialism	206
Corporatist Reform or Totalitarian Dictatorship?	216
CONCLUSION	228
Bibliography	237
Index	255