

Trotskyism and the Dilemma of Socialism

Christopher Z. Hobson and Ronald D. Tabor

Contributions in Political Science, Number 215

Greenwood Press

New York • Westport, Connecticut • London

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	xi
The Formative Years of the Trotskyist Movement	1
1. The Russian Revolution and the Origins of Trotskyism, 1917–1929	3
2. International Trotskyism, 1929–1938	47
3. The Trotskyist Movement in 1938–1940 — A Balance Sheet	79
The “Russian Question”	105
4. The Degeneration of the Russian Revolution	107
5. Introduction to the Analysis of State Capitalism	143
6. Capitalism in Russia	163
7. State Ownership and Planning in Russia	193
8. Trotsky’s Theory of Russia — A Critique	225
The Trotskyist Movement in Crisis	265
9. World War II and the Trotskyist Movement	267
10. The Fourth International in Crisis (1946–1948)	301
11. Eastern Europe and the Emergence of Pabloism	331
12. Opposition to Pablo Before the Third World Congress	359
13. The Third World Congress and the 1953 Split	375
Conclusion	381
Epilogue: The Fourth International from 1963 to the Present	395

Appendices	419
Appendix I: The Law of Value and How It Operates in Russia	421
Appendix II: Strategy and Tactics in World War II	447
Appendix III: Bolivia: Test for the International	455
Notes	467
Bibliography	511
Index	535