

BARBARA OOMEN

Assistant Professor of Law & Development University of Amsterdam

James Currey OXFORD

University of KwaZulu-Natal Press

palgrave

CONTENTS

List of Acronyms Acknowledgements Photographs	viii ix xii–xv
1. Introduction
Reawakenings	1
1. The dawning of the dawn	1
2. A new world	4
The nation-state – New politics – Renegotiating the culture card – The rise of 'rights to roots' – The resurgence of the traditional leaders	ı
3. Past nightmares	13
Culture and colonialism - The creation of customary law -
The character of bureaucratic chieftaincy
4. Theoretical challenges	20
Law. power, culture – The constitutive effects of cultural rights legislation – The resurgence of traditional leadership
5. An approach to the study	29
'The locality' – Traditional leaders, living law – A place – Methods
6. Outline of the study	36
2. The Patchwork Democracy Boundary Politics after 1994	37
1. Introduction	37
2. The legacy	37 40
3. Imagining the future: constitutional negotiations	45
1991-1992: Talks about talks – 1993: Formulating the interim	13
Constitution - 1994-1996: Drafting the final Constitution
4. Towards a Traditional Authorities Act	54
5. 'Two bulls in a kraal?': the local government discussion The Local Government Transition Act – The White Paper and new municipal legislation – The 2000 implementation crisis	59
6. Keeping control over land	70
Hanekom: the socialist years – Didiza: back to traditional communities	, ,
7. The customary law debates	77
Relations: customary law and the Bill of Rights - Rules:
the Law Commission's harmonisation project - Guarding the customary courts
8. Conclusion	85

7. Conclusion

1. Introduction 87 2. Who did the defining? The actors 90 The African National Congress - The IPP and some unlikely allies - Contralesa: chiefs in politics - The civics: a wilting counterweight - The Traditional Affairs officials 3. Why could they? Signs of the times Party-political power - Path dependency - The quest for an African identity - Transformations of the state - The rise of group rights 4. The assumptions Rural-urban difference - Community-think - Coherent systems of customary law - Chiefly legitimacy 5. Conclusion 121 4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 123 1. Introduction 123 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 123 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics - Bureaucracy - Party politics 4. The institutional landscape 143 4. The institutional landscape 143 Blected local government - Government departments - The civics - Mapogo a Mathamaga - The churches - Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources - Control over boundaries - Control over people - Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits - Issue-related - Not exclusive - Dynamic 175 3. Support at community level 169 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 175 Hoepscharne: out on the mountains - Ga-Masha: one step away from riches - Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 182 5. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 185 5. Support at the individual level 185 Thes are our rooks: traditional leaders? 186 Thes are our rooks: traditional leaders? 187 These are our rooks: traditional leaders? 189 These are our rooks: traditional legitimacy - They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - They guard us for the government - What else is there? dealul legitimacy - They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - They guard us for the government - W	3. The Power of Definition
2. Who did the defining? The actors The African National Congress – The IPP and some unlikely allies – Contralesa: chiefs in politics – The civics: a wilting counterweight – The Traditional Affairs officials 3. Why could they? Signs of the times Party-political power – Path dependency – The quest for an African identity – Transformations of the state – The rise of group rights 4. The assumptions Rural-urban difference – Community-think – Coherent systems of customary law – Chiefly legitimacy 5. Conclusion 121 4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 123 1. Introduction 123 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 125 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape 143 Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over resources – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? 168 Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 175 3. Support at community level Hoepakran: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 185 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Support at the individual level 186 This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – 186 The paradox of the women – Moving up, moving out: education and income 186 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 193 These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – They goard us for the government' –	Struggling for the Soul of Custom	87
The African National Congress — The PP and some unlikely allies — Contralesa: chiefs in politics — The civics: a wilting counterweight — The Traditional Affairs officials 3. Why could they? Signs of the times Party-political power — Path dependency — The quest for an African identity — Transformations of the state — The rise of group rights 4. The assumptions Rural-urban difference — Community-think — Coherent systems of customary law — Chiefly legitimacy 5. Conclusion 123 4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 1. Introduction 1. Introduction 1. Introduction 1. Introduction 1. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics — Bureaucracy — Party politics 1. The institutional landscape 1. The institutional landscape 1. The institutional landscape 1. Asserting control Control over resources — Coperiment departments — The civics — Mapogo a Mathamaga — The churches — Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources — Control over boundaries — Control over people — Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits — Issue-related — Not exclusive — Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains — Ga-Masha: one step away from riches — Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy — Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders — The paradox of the women — Moving up, moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional legitimacy — They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation — They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation — They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation — They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation — They guard us for the government' —	1. Introduction	87
Contralesa: chiefs in politics – The civics: a wilting counterweight – The Traditional Affairs officials 3. Why could they? Signs of the times Party-political power – Path dependency – The quest for an African identity – Transformations of the state – The rise of group rights 4. The assumptions 115 Rural-urban difference – Community-think – Coherent systems of customary law – Chiefly legitimacy 5. Conclusion 121 4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 123 1. Introduction 123 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 125 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape 143 Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control 156 Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chiefaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? 168 Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 169 3. Support at community level 168 Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 182 Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Support at the individual level 186 The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 180 6. Why do people support traditional legitimacy – They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – They goard us for the government' –		90
The Traditional Affairs officials 3. Why could they? Signs of the times Party-political power - Path dependency - The quest for an African identity - Transformations of the state - The rise of group rights 4. The assumptions Rural-urban difference - Community-think - Coherent systems of customary law - Chiefly legitimacy 5. Conclusion 121 4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 1. Introduction 1. Introduction 1. Introduction 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics - Bureaucracy - Party politics 4. The institutional landscape 1. Elected local government - Government departments - The civics - Mapogo a Mathamaga - The churches - Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources - Control over boundaries - Control over people - Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. How do people support chiefs? Within limits - Issue-related - Not exclusive - Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains - Ga-Masha: one step away from riches - Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs, supporting chieftaincy - Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders - The paradox of the women - Moving up, moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy - They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - They guard us for the government -
Party-political power – Path dependency – The quest for an African identity – Transformations of the state – The rise of group rights 4. The assumptions Rural-urban difference – Community-think – Coherent systems of customary law – Chiefly legitimacy 5. Conclusion 121 4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 123 1. Introduction 123 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 125 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape 143 Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 175 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 185 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 182 5. Support at the individual level 185 The paradox of the women – Moving up, moving out: education and income 184 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 185 The paradox of the women – Moving up, moving out: education and income 185 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 186 The paradox of the women – Moving up, moving out: education and income 185 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 186 The paradox of the women – Moving up, moving out: education and income 185 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 187 The paradox of the women – Moving up, moving out: education and income 189 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 189 The paradox of the women – Moving up, moving out: education and income 189 6. Why do people support tradi
African identity - Transformations of the state - The rise of group rights 4. The assumptions Rural-urban difference - Community-think - Coherent systems of customary law - Chiefly legitimacy 5. Conclusion 121 4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 123 1. Introduction 123 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 125 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics - Bureaucracy - Party politics 4. The institutional landscape 143 Elected local government - Government departments - The civics - Mapogo a Mathamaga - The churches - Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources - Control over boundaries - Control over people - Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits - Issue-related - Not exclusive - Dynamic 175 Hoepakranz: out on the mountains - Ga-Masha: one step away from riches - Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 182 Support at community level 185 Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy - Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 182 Support at the individual level 185 This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders - The paradox of the women - Moving up. moving out: education and income 183 Chief to the women - Moving up. moving out: education and income 184 Chieft and 184 Chieft and 185		102
4. The assumptions Rural-urban difference – Community-think – Coherent systems of customary law – Chiefly legitimacy 5. Conclusion 121 4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 1. Introduction 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – They guard us for the government' –
Rural-urban difference — Community-think — Coherent systems of customary law — Chiefly legitimacy 5. Conclusion 121 4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 1. Introduction 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics — Bureaucracy — Party politics 4. The institutional landscape Elected local government — Government departments — The civics — Mapogo a Mathamaga — The churches — Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources — Control over boundaries — Control over people — Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits — Issue-related — Not exclusive — Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains — Ga-Masha: one step away from riches — Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chiefaincy — Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders — The paradox of the women — Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy — "They guard us for the government' —		115
4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 1. Introduction 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up, moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional legitimacy – They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –		-1-7
4. Sekhukhune The Institutional Landscape 1. Introduction 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional legitimacy – "They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – "They guard us for the government' –
1. Introduction 123 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 125 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres 132 Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape 143 Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control 156 Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? 168 Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 168 3. Support at community level 169 Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 175 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Supporting chiefs. supporting chiefaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 186 This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 187 6. Why do people support traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –	5. Conclusion	121
1. Introduction 123 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 125 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres 132 Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape 143 Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control 156 Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? 168 Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 168 3. Support at community level 169 Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 175 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Supporting chiefs. supporting chiefaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 186 This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 187 6. Why do people support traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –
1. Introduction 123 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 125 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres 132 Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape 143 Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control 156 Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? 168 Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 168 3. Support at community level 169 Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 175 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Supporting chiefs. supporting chiefaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 186 This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 187 6. Why do people support traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –	1 Cokhukhuna
1. Introduction 2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional legitimacy – "They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – "They guard us for the government' –
2. From Bopedi to Lebowa 3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up, moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –	The Institutional Landscape	123
3. Traditional leadership and its spheres Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – "They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – "They guard us for the government' –	1. Introduction	123
Palace politics – Bureaucracy – Party politics 4. The institutional landscape Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –		125
4. The institutional landscape Elected local government - Government departments - The civics - Mapogo a Mathamaga - The churches - Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources - Control over boundaries - Control over people - Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits - Issue-related - Not exclusive - Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains - Ga-Masha: one step away from riches - Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy - Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders - The paradox of the women - Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy - 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - 'They guard us for the government' -		132
Elected local government – Government departments – The civics – Mapogo a Mathamaga – The churches – Organisations of business and migrants 5. Asserting control Control over resources – Control over boundaries – Control over people – Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –		143
Control over resources - Control over boundaries - Control over people - Control over meaning 6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits - Issue-related - Not exclusive - Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains - Ga-Masha: one step away from riches - Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy - Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders - The paradox of the women - Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy - 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - 'They guard us for the government' -	Elected local government - Government departments - The civics - Mapogo a	113
6. Conclusion 162 5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? 168 Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 175 Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 182 Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 186 'This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 193 These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –		156
5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? 168 Within limits - Issue-related - Not exclusive - Dynamic 175 Hoepakranz: out on the mountains - Ga-Masha: one step away from riches - Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 182 Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Supporting chiefs, supporting chieftaincy - Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 186 'This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders - The paradox of the women - Moving up. moving out: education and income 183 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 193 These are our roots': traditional legitimacy - 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - 'They guard us for the government' -
5. 'Walking in the middle of the road' People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 164 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 164 2. How do people support chiefs? 168 Within limits - Issue-related - Not exclusive - Dynamic 175 Hoepakranz: out on the mountains - Ga-Masha: one step away from riches - Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 182 Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy - Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 186 'This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders - The paradox of the women - Moving up. moving out: education and income 183 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 193 These are our roots': traditional legitimacy - 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - 'They guard us for the government' -	_	162
People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. How do people support chiefs? 1. Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 1. Support at community level 1. Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – 1. Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 1. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 1. Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 1. Support at the individual level 1. This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – 1. The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 1. Why do people support traditional leaders? 1. These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': 1. performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –	5. 50
People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. How do people support chiefs? 1. Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 1. Support at community level 1. Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – 1. Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 1. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 1. Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 1. Support at the individual level 1. This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – 1. The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 1. Why do people support traditional leaders? 1. These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': 1. performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –
People's Perspectives on the Legitimacy of Traditional Leadership 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 1. How do people support chiefs? 1. Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 1. Support at community level 1. Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – 1. Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 1. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 1. Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 1. Support at the individual level 1. This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – 1. The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 1. Why do people support traditional leaders? 1. These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': 1. performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –	5. 'Walking in the middle of the road'
1. Chieftaincy and legitimacy 2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs. supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –		164
2. How do people support chiefs? Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs, supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –	-
Within limits – Issue-related – Not exclusive – Dynamic 3. Support at community level 175 Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics 182 Supporting chiefs, supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level 186 'This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 193 'These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –
3. Support at community level Hoepakranz: out on the mountains – Ga-Masha: one step away from riches – Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs, supporting chieftaincy – Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –		100
Mamone: retraditionalisation in a fast-changing world 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs, supporting chieftaincy - Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders - The paradox of the women - Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? These are our roots': traditional legitimacy - 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - 'They guard us for the government' -	•	175
 4. Support dependent on chiefly characteristics Supporting chiefs, supporting chieftaincy ~ Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level 'This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 'These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' – 	Hoepakranz: out on the mountains — Ga-Masha: one step away from riches —
Supporting chiefs, supporting chiefaincy ~ Virtues and vices of traditional leaders 5. Support at the individual level 186 'This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 193 'These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –		182
5. Support at the individual level 'This is a thing of our parents': the youth and the elders – The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 'These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –	Supporting chiefs, supporting chieftaincy ~ Virtues and vices of traditional leaders	102
The paradox of the women – Moving up. moving out: education and income 6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 'These are our roots': traditional legitimacy – 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation – 'They guard us for the government' –	5. Support at the individual level	186
6. Why do people support traditional leaders? 'These are our roots': traditional legitimacy - 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - 'They guard us for the government' -
'These are our roots': traditional legitimacy - 'They do good things for us': performance as a source of legitimation - 'They guard us for the government' -		193
	'These are our roots': traditional legitimacy - 'They do good things for us':	1,,

198

	Contents	vii
6. Negotiated Laws, Relational Right	S
Power, Authority & the Creation of Local Law		200
1. Introduction		200
 Living law and legal culture in Sekhukhune Plurality of forums – Negotiated law – State law as a resource – Relational rights – A processual legal culture 		204
 Stories of succession Succession: the official version – Living law – Interactions – Illustrations 		218
4. The Commission on the Tribal Constitution		229
5. Conclusion		233
7. Conclusion
Categories have Consequences
The Constitutive Effects of Cultural Rights Legislation		235
1. Introduction		235
2. Definitions and struggles		236
 The constitutive effects of cultural rights legislation Sekhukhune subjects – Political formations – Material implications – Categories and chiefly resurgence 		240
4. Law, power and culture		246
5. Alternatives		249

References Index

267