

LUIS MARTINEZ

The Algerian
Civil War
1990-1998

WITH A PREFACE BY JOHN P. ENTELIS

TRANSLATED FROM THE FRENCH BY JONATHAN DERRICK

HURST & COMPANY, LONDON

in association with the Centre d'Etudes et de Recherches Internationales, Paris

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	page v
Preface by John P. Entelis	ix
Abbreviations	xv
Chronology	xvi
Map of Algiers and its surroundings	xxi
 Chapters
1. Introduction	1
The myth of the 'Black Decade' (1979-91): the economic and social 'crisis'	2
The failure of the 'imitation state'	5
Our hypothesis : a war-oriented imaginaire	7
Corsairs, Caïds, 'Colonels' and 'Emirs': the changing face of the political bandit	10
The maquis as the school of power	14
Civil war as an economic and political choice	15
Part I. THE SHAPING OF THE CIVIL WAR
2. Social and Political Changes	23
The FIS's economic partners in local government (1990-91)	23
Hadj Sadok, suburban military entrepreneur	26
New players on the political stage	33
The devout activists' agenda	37
The Islamist passion	39
3. A Revolutionary Situation	48
Conditions favouring Islamist dissidence	48
Indignation	55
Waiting for the avenger	60
Arguments based on outside events	63
The maquis: centre of armed resistance	68
4. Descent into War	72
The politics of chaos	73
The intoxication of violence.	76
Liberated areas	82
The suburban jihad seen from the countryside	84
Part II. THE MAINSPRINGS OF CIVIL WAR
5. The War Logic of the Islamist Armed Bands	94
The 'Emir' and the model of the military entrepreneur	94
Portrait of an 'Emir': Saïd the sheet-metal worker	96

	Fascination and respect for the Emirs	98
	How the 'Emirates' were run	100
	Economic determinants of the GIA's consolidation	106
	Wasting the FIS electoral capital	111
	The ambiguity of 'total war'	116
6.	New Ways to Make Big Money	119
	The other side of privatisation: destruction of the state sector	119
	The eminent citizen and the guerrillas	126
	Lucrative new business opportunities	133
	The Emirs: 'moudjahidin by trade'	137
	From armed groups to import/export companies	144
7.	The Security Policy	147
	Creation of a special anti-guerrilla army corps	148
	Modernising the apparatus of repression	155
	Psychological warfare and political jobs	157
	The army, number-one state enterprise	161
	Part III. CONSOLIDATION OF THE WAR
8.	War Economy and Political Dynamics	171
	Consolidation of the regime	171
	International aid and redrawing of the political landscape	179
	The trade economy and assimilation of the Islamists	184
	A common political imaginaire	190
9.	Islamist Guerrilla Ideology and Strategy	197
	The political guerrillas	198
	The revolutionary guerrillas	206
	The struggle for monopoly of the jihad	212
	The development of the guerrilla campaign	215
	The illusion of re-enacting the War of Liberation	218
10.	Back to the Beyliks	220
	The politics of 'depoliticisation': the authoritarian illusion	221
	Exploitation of the civil war	227
	Military and guerrillas in the pursuit of war	231
	From war economy to peace economy	234
	What ways out of the civil war?	240
11.	Conclusion	245
	Neither side can win	245
	War and social change	247
	A long war ahead?	249
	From a war-oriented to a democratic imaginaire	250
	Bibliography	253
	Index	262