

THE CONTEMPLATIVE SOUL

Hebrew Poetry and Philosophical Theory in Medieval Spain

BY

ADENA TANENBAUM

BRILL
LEIDEN · BOSTON · KÖLN
2002

CONTENTS

Table of Poems	ix
Preface	xi
1. From Greco-Arabic Thought to Hebrew Poetry	1
2. God, Man, and the Universe: Solomon Ibn Gabirol's Keter Malkhut	57
3. A Sermon to the Soul: Solomon Ibn Gabirol's "Shabbehi nafshi le-šurekh"	84
4. Intertwined Exiles: Moses Ibn Ezra's "Nafshi ivvitikha ba-laylah"	106
5. The Adornment of the Soul: A Philosophical Motif	132
6. Meditation on the Soul as a Prelude to Prayer: Abraham Ibn Ezra's "Imrat yeḥidah le-yaḥid ya'atah"	146
7. The Motif of Self-Knowledge: "From My Flesh I Behold God"	160
8. Anti-rationalism or Metaphysical Skepticism? Judah Halevi's "Shuvi nafshi li-mnuḥaykhi"	174
9. An Inventive Heir: Judah Alḥarizi and his Andalusian Models	195
10. The Afterlife of the Genre: The Reception and Transformation of Andalusian Poems on the Soul	218
Bibliography
Bibliographical Abbreviations	245
Primary Sources	247
Secondary Literature	253
Indices
Index of Poems	275
Index of Sources	279
General Index	284