

IN SEARCH OF ARAB UNITY
1930 – 1945

YEHOSHUA PORATH

FRANK CASS

CONTENTS

Foreword	vii
1 Hashemite Attempts at Fertile Crescent Unity	1
Faysal's Syrian initiatives	4
'Abdallah's Greater Syria project	22
Nuri al-Sa'id's initiative	39
2 The Ever-Present Panacea – Arab Federation as a Solution to the Palestine Question	58
Jewish proposals	58
Arab initiatives-	69
Unofficial British démarches	72
The Philby Scheme, or the proposed Saudi-led federation	80
Official British thinking	106
3 The Rise of Political Pan-Arabism	149
Pan-Arabism in Egypt	149
Pan-Arabism in the Fertile Crescent	159
The effect of the Palestine Arab Rebellion	162
The growth of cultural co-operation	175
Improvement of inter-Arab relations	179
The effects of the early years of the Second World War	185
4 British Policy Regarding Pan-Arabism	197
British reaction to Faysal's initiative	197
Britain and 'Abdallah's Greater Syria project	203
British reaction to Nuri al-Sa'id's initiative	216
British attitude to Pan-Arabism	223
5 The Formation of the Arab League	257
The impact of Eden's February 1943 statement: the inter-Arab consultations	257
From the consultations to the Preparatory Committee	267
The formation of the Arab League	284
British attitude: the final stage	290
British policy in the Middle East: image versus reality; London versus 'the men on the spot'	303
Conclusions	312
Notes	320
Bibliography	361
Index	366