

ECONOMY WITHOUT WALLS

Managing Local Development
in a Restructuring World

Roger E. Hamlin and Thomas S. Lyons

Foreword by Schun Hagiwara

PRAEGER

Westport, Connecticut
London

Contents

Foreword by Schun Hagiwara	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction: West Berlin and Other Sectors	1
1 Background: Necessity Is the Mother of Invention	7
2 Philosophical and Conceptual Foundations: Why Walls Must Go	13
3 Urban and Regional Development: Where Laissez-Faire Never Worked	25
4 Public-Private Processes: Herman Miller Style	29
5 HANDS: Opening Doors	77
6 Incubation: Breaking Out	99
7 Intersectoral Collaboration in Ecumenopolis: Crossing Over	123
8 Implications for the Development Professions: Long-Range Planning for Rapid Change	145

viii Contents

9	Implications for Urban and Regional Analysis: Data Without Walls	155
10	Summary and Conclusions: Public Entrepreneurs and Private Statesmen	167
	References	175
	Index	185