

Henry George (1839–1897)

Edited by

Mark Blaug

Professor Emeritus, University of London

An Elgar Reference Collection

Contents

Acknowledgements	vii
Introduction	ix
1. George J. Stigler (1969), 'Alfred Marshall's Lectures on Progress and Poverty', Journal of Law and Economics , XII (1), April, 181–226	1
2. Bernard Newton (1976), 'Henry George and Henry M. Hyndman, I: The Forging of an Untenable Alliance, 1882–83', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 35 (3), July, 311–23	47
3. Will Lissner (1979), 'On the Centenary of Progress and Poverty ', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 38 (1), January, 1–16	60
4. Charles Collier (1979), 'Henry George's System of Political Economy', History of Political Economy , 11 (1), Spring, 64–93	76
5. Frank Petrella (1981), 'Henry George, the Classical Model and Technological Change: The Ignored Alternative to the Single Tax in Progress and Poverty', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 40 (2), April, 191–206	106
6. John M. Kelly (1981), 'The New Barbarians: The Continuing Relevance of Henry George', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 40 (3), July, 299–308	122
7. Terence M. Dwyer (1982), 'Henry George's Thought in Relation to Modern Economics', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 41 (4), October, 363–73	132
8. Aaron B. Fuller, III (1983), 'Selected Elements of Henry George's Legitimacy as an Economist', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 42 (1), January, 45–61	143
9. Warren J. Samuels (1983), 'Henry George's Challenge to the Economics Profession', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 42 (1), January, 63–6	160
10. Warren J. Samuels (1983), 'The Progress and Poverty Centenary: Advocates and Opponents will Enjoy and Learn from the Papers Given at One Celebration', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 42 (2), April, 247–54	164
11. Frank Petrella (1984), 'Henry George's Theory of State's Agenda: The Origins of His Ideas on Economic Policy in Adam Smith's Moral Theory', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 43 (3), July, 269–86	172
12. Leland B. Yeager (1984), 'Henry George and Austrian Economics', History of Political Economy , 16 (2), Summer, 157–74	190
13. Robert V. Andelson (1985), 'Henry George and Economic Intervention: A Critic Proposes that George's Structures on Industrial Monopolies Be Revised', American Journal of Economics and Sociology , 44 (1), January, 97–105	208