

ASSESSING CORPORATE POLITICAL RISK

A Guide for International Businessmen

David M. Raddock

with contributions by

Henry Albinski, William Coplin and Michael O'Leary, Gustavo Coronel, Hermann Eilts,
Fariborz Ghadar, Zvi Gitelman, Felton
Johnston, Robert Slater, and Kim Woodard

ROWMAN & LITTLEFIELD PUBLISHERS

Contents

Tables and Figures	xi
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction	xv
PART ONE AN INVENTORY FOR POLITICAL RISK ANALYSIS
1 An Overview	3
The Interrelationships Between Politics and Economics, 3
Assessing Risk, 4
2 Assessing Domestic Politics	6
Variables of Risk, 6
Leadership Succession, 6; Crisis of Legitimacy of a Regime, 9;
Rising Expectations or Hopes for Social Mobility and the Frustration Thereof, 11; Disaffection of Middle Class,
Professional Support from the Regime, 13; Historical Propensity to Default, Nationalize, or Expropriate Gradually Through Increased
Regulations, 14; Corruption, 16; Secular and Sacred Ideologies, 17;
Demographic Patterns, 18; Labor Agitation and Worker
Participation in Management, 19; Cultural, Regional, and Traditional/Modern Cleavages in Society, 21; Civil Disorder:
Violence and Terrorism, 24; Military Unrest, 26; External
Territorial Disputes, 28; Elites and Their Relative Influence, 29;
Nationalism and National Goals, 30; The Reform Versus Retrenchment Pattern, 31; Social Revolution and Living with the Winners, 32
The Political Cultural Dimension, 34
Constraints Against Upheavals and Image of the World, 34
U.S. Government Constraints on Doing Business Abroad, 37
Trade Sanctions/Embargoes/East-West Trade, 37; The U.S.
Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, 38; Anti-Boycott Restrictions, 39;
The Act of State Doctrine, 39
Notes, 40
3 Assessing the Economic Side of the Equation	41
Financial and Commercial Variables, 41
Current account/Debt service ratio/Reserve-to-import ratio/Export composition/Currency competitiveness/Import incompressibility/
Commercial Disincentives, 49
The Political-Economic Interface, 50

PART TWO COUNTRY CASE STUDIES

- 4 Doing Business with the USSR and Eastern Europe: The Political Setting, Zvi Gitelman 55
 The Political Culture of the Soviet Union, 57
 Politics, Demographics, and Change, 61
 Demographic Change and the Future Soviet Labor Force, 63
 Corruption, 64
 U.S. Government Policy and Trade with the USSR, 66
 A Note on Eastern Europe, 68
- 5 Political Risk in China, Kim Woodard 71
 Leadership Succession in the Post-Deng Era, 72
 Regime Stability and Ideological Evolution, 75
 The Party, 75; Ideology, 77; The Military, 80; The Government, 82
 Regional and Global Power Relations, 85
 Sino-U.S. Relations, 86; The Asia-Pacific Region, 88; The Soviet Union and Eastern Europe, 90
 Long-Range Political Risk in China, 91
 Notes, 92
- 6 Venezuela: Oil, Democracy, and the Quest for Sound Political Leadership, Gustavo Coronel 94
 A Brief Historical Background, 94
 Essential Political and Social Bearings, 96
 The Political and Economic Process, 97
 The Ingredients of the Crisis, 97; The Lack of Leadership, 98;
 The Main Actors, 99
 The Results, 103
 Strengths and Weaknesses and Implications for International Business, 105
 Outlook, 107
- 7 Saudi Arabia, Hermann Frederick Eilts 110
 Domestic Saudi Arabian Politics, 112
 Leadership Succession, 112; The Middle Class, 113; The Fringes of Islam: An Apparent but Unproven Threat, 114; No Organized Labor, but Militant Expatriate Workers, 114; The Question of Civil Disorder, 115; The Political Process, 115; The Military, 115; External Threat, 115; Terrorism Limited, 116; Traditional Religion and the Fear of Modernity from the West: A Deterrent to Foreigners Living in Saudi Arabia, 116; Regional Relations with the Capital, 117; Political Participation and the Challenge for Social Change, 117
 The Political Cultural Dimension, 118
 Potential Sources of Instability, 119
 U.S. Government Impediments to Doing Business with Saudi Arabia, 120

	Commercial Conditions: Environment for Investment, 122
	Economic Conditions: Risks and Indicators, 124
	Conclusion, 126
8	Australia , Henry S. Albinski	127
	The Economic Environment, 127
	Climate of Opinion and Political Culture, 129
	Actors, Formations, and Constituencies, 132
	The Workforce, 132; The Australian Labor Party, 135; Private Sector Groups, 138; The Coalition Parties, 139
	The Decision-Making Framework, 141
	Summary and Conclusion, 145
	PART THREE APPROACHES TO DEVISING METHODOLOGIES AND MODELS
9	The Bootstrapping Approach: An Alternative to Old Methods Restyled , Robert O. Slater	149
	Approaches to Political Risk Analysis, 150
	Alternative Approaches to Risk Analysis, 155
	Models of Expert Judgments, 156
	Bootstrapping for Political Risk Analysis, 159
	References, 162
10	The Frost and Sullivan Method: Applying the "Prince" William Coplin and Michael O'Leary	163
	Guidelines for Preparing the Narrative for the 18-Month Forecast, 163
	Political Forecasts Through the Prince System, 166
	Prince Charts, 166; Decision Structure Charts, 167; Probability Calculations, 169; Using the Prince Model, 171
	Calculating Risk Ratings, 171
	Meaning of the Risk Indicators, 172; Calculating Risk Indicators, 173
	PART FOUR FINANCIAL STRUCTURING AGAINST RISK AND POLITICAL RISK INSURANCE
11	Managing Financial Risk: Assessing Devaluation, Foreign Exchange Controls, and Debt Repayment , Fariborz Ghadar	179
	Balance of Payments and Current Account, 182; Differential Inflation Rates, 183; Level of Reserves, 183
12	Political Risk Insurance , Felton McC. Johnston	186
	What the Markets Offer, 186
	The Market Players, 186
	Motivations and Constraints of Political Risk Insurers, 188
	The Future Development of Political Risk Insurance Markets, 192

Approaching the Marketplace, 193
Summing Up, 196

PART FIVE CONCLUSION

13 Conclusion	199
Notes, 202
Index	203
About the Author/Editor	213
About the Contributors	214