

Urban Planning under Thatcherism

The challenge of the market

Andy Thornley

London and New York

Contents

|  |           |
|--|-----------|
| Acknowledgements   | vi        |
| 1 Introduction  | 1  |
| The approach adopted in the book                          | 5         |
| The structure of the book                                 | 7         |
| 2 The post-war consensus and the purpose of planning      | 10 |
| The post-war consensus and the changing role of the state | 11        |
| The purpose of planning                                   | 18        |
| Planning as the child of consensus                        | 21        |
| Adjusting to growth                                       | 23        |
| Resolution of conflicts and shifting consensus            | 25        |
| Conclusions   | 31        |
| 3 The nature of Thatcherism                               | 35 |
| The elements of Thatcherism                               | 35        |
| A coherent ideology?                                      | 44        |
| Is Thatcherism Conservative?                              | 50        |
| Thatcherism and continuity                                | 54        |
| Conclusions   | 57        |
| 4 Re-orienting the state                                  | 61 |
| The academic foundations                                  | 61        |
| The political statement                                   | 76        |
| Conclusions   | 86        |
| Conceptual framework                                      | 90        |
| 5 New Right thinking; planning under siege                | 92 |
| The influence of the USA                                  | 92        |
| The development of thought in Britain                     | 104       |
| Conclusions   | 116       |

|           |   |     |
|-----------|---|-----|
| 6  | Modifications to the planning system:  |     |
|           | 1 Development plans  | 122 |
|           | The first attack on structure plans  | 124 |
|           | The Local Government, Planning and Land Act 1980   | 126 |
|           | Local plans and conflict in the City   | 129 |
|           | Unitary Development Plans and strategic guidance   | 133 |
|           | Lifting the Burden   | 135 |
|           | Have development plans a future?   | 137 |
|           | Conclusions  | 143 |
| 7  | Modifications to the planning system:  |     |
|           | 2 Development control  | 146 |
|           | The centrepiece: Circular 22/80  | 147 |
|           | Further restrictions: the use of planning conditions                                     | 151 |
|           | Planning gain: a loophole?   | 152 |
|           | The enterprise culture: relaxing controls on industry and small business                 | 154 |
|           | Further deregulation: changes to the General Development Order and the Use Classes Order | 156 |
|           | Conclusions  | 160 |
| 8  | By-passing the planning system   | 162 |
|           | Architectural competitions: an early idea  | 162 |
|           | Special Development Orders: instruments of freedom                                       | 163 |
|           | Urban Development Corporations: marketing flexibility                                    | 165 |
|           | Conclusions  | 182 |
| 9  | Towards a simplified planning system   | 185 |
|           | The Enterprise Zone idea   | 185 |
|           | Formulating the new planning regime  | 191 |
|           | What has happened in practice?   | 196 |
|           | Extending the approach: Simplified Planning Zones  | 201 |
|           | Conclusions  | 204 |
| 10 | Conclusions: the re-orientation of the planning system                                   | 208 |
|           | Principles of decision-making  | 208 |
|           | Procedures of decision-making  | 210 |
|           | Anti-bureaucratic sentiments   | 211 |
|           | A coherent attack on planning?   | 212 |
|           | How radical a change?  | 217 |
|           | The dominance of Thatcherism   | 219 |
|           | Halting the forward march of Thatcherism   | 222 |
|           | Bibliography   | 227 |
|           | Index  | 246 |