

Stefania Buccini

The Americas in Italian Literature and Culture

1700 - 1825

Translated by Rosanna Giammanco

Foreword by Franco Fido

The Pennsylvania State University Press
University Park, Pennsylvania

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
Foreword by Franco Fido	ix
Author's Note	xiv
1. Christian America and "Savage" America	1
1. Travelers and Explorers Between Two Centuries	12
2. The Comparative Approach: Lafitau, Vico, and Boturini Benaduci	24
2. The Alibis of Exoticism: Myth, Parody, Utopia	39
1. The Italian Enlightenment and the Denunciation of the Return "To All Fours"	39
2. The American Indian in Eighteenth-Century Social Debates	46
3. Carlo Goldoni's "American" Tragicomedies	51
4. The Parody of the "State of Nature": Francesco Cerlone and Ferdinando Degli Obizzi	59
5. Pietro Chiari's Primitivism	63
6. The Utopia of Peru	68

7. Gian Rinaldo Carli's Lettere americane and the Apotheosis of Utopia	77
3. Tradition and Revision in Eighteenth-Century Histories of the New World	85
4. Italy and the New America	107
1. The Quakers and the Myth of Pennsylvania	107
2. Benjamin Franklin's Image	118
3. Revolution and Vittorio Alfieri's America libera	123
4. Filippo Mazzei, Witness to Revolution	136
5. Luigi Castiglioni's Travels in the United States of North America	149
5. Epilogue: Nineteenth-Century Developments	161
1. Lorenzo Da Ponte's America	161
2. Carlo Botta's History of the War of the Independence of the United States of America	170
3. Giacomo Leopardi and the New World	189
Select Bibliography	207
Index	219