

ISLAM, DEMOCRACY AND RELIGIOUS MODERNISM IN IRAN (1953–2000)

From Bāzargān to Soroush

BY

FOROUGH JAHANBAKHS

BRILL
LEIDEN · BOSTON · KÖLN
2001

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	1
 Chapter One. What is Democracy?	 5
Fundamental Principles of Democracy	9
Equality	9
Liberty	13
Majority Rule	15
 Chapter Two. Democratic Norms in Islam	 20
Freedom	23
Apostasy	30
Equality	31
Religious Minorities	33
Slavery	35
Male-Female Dichotomy	38
Public Participation in Politics	42
Shūrā and Bay'ah	42
 Chapter Three. The Emergence of Muslim Intellectualism in Modern Iran	 50
 Chapter Four. Religious Modernism and Democracy in Iran	 65
Ayatullah S. Maḥmūd Ṭāliqānī	69
Mahdī Bāzargān	80
A Biographical Sketch	80
The Freedom Movement of Iran	91
Refutation of Despotism	94
Islamic Ideology	99
ʿAllāmah Muḥammad H. Ṭabāṭabāʾī	113
→ Ali Shariʿati	119
→ Ayatullah M. Muṭahharī	126
→ Ayatullah R. Khomeini	130
Concluding Remarks	136

Chapter Five. Post-Revolutionary Religious Intellectuals and
• Democracy. Abdulkarim Soroush	140
• Abdulkarim Soroush	143
A Biographical Sketch	143
• The Theory of Contraction and Expansion of Religious Knowledge	146
The Clergy	149
• De-ideologization of Religion	151
Religious Democratic State	153
An Appraisal	162
Epilogue	172
Bibliography	186
Index	196