

MICHAEL BLEANEY

Do Socialist Economies Work?

The Soviet and East European Experience

Basil Blackwell

Contents

List of Tables	vii
Preface	ix
1 The Formation of the Soviet Economic System	1
Introduction	1
Agrarian relations	2
Planning and the market	6
Economic growth in the 1930s	12
2 The USSR and Eastern Europe since 1945	18
Introduction	18
From 1945 to the death of Stalin	18
De-Stalinization and after	24
Economic growth	32
Investment cycles	35
Agriculture	37
3 Planners and Enterprises	42
The construction of a plan	42
Success indicators	47
Enterprise reactions to supply difficulties	50
Planning from the achieved level	53
The hoarding of inputs	55
Reforming the economic mechanism	57
4 Growth in the Centrally Planned Economy	64
Introduction	64
Investment	64
Technical progress	68
The soft budget constraint	74
The tendency to excess demand	78

5	Poland: the System in Crisis	83
	Introduction	83
	The Gomulka years	84
	Gierek's gamble	87
	The formation of Solidarity	91
	Conclusions	95
6	Hungary: the Reform Model	98
	Introduction	98
	The aftermath of 1956	98
	The New Economic Mechanism	101
	An assessment of the reform	105
	A renewed reform impetus	109
	Conclusions	111
7	East-West Comparisons	114
	Introduction	114
	Consumer satisfaction	114
	Unemployment	117
	Income distribution	118
	Inflation	122
	Growth	125
	Conclusions	129
8	Yugoslavia: Self-managed Socialism	131
	Introduction	131
	The road to self-management	131
	The theory of the labour-managed enterprise	140
	Economic performance up to 1979	143
	The 1980s: foreign indebtedness and stagnation	148
	Conclusions	151
9	Assessment	154
	Bibliography	162
	Index	169