1.2.2.1 The Arusha Declaration and the Second Five Year Plan		6
1.2.2.2 The Long-term Industrial Strategy		7
1.3 Performance of industrial development since independence		9
1.3.1 Industrial growth		9
1.3.2 Industrial employment		11
1.3.3 Investment		12
1.3.4 Structural changes		14
1.3.5 Pattern of ownership		17
1.3.6 Foreign exchange earning		21
1.3.7 Self-reliance		23
1.3.8 Efficiency		23
1.3.8.1 Labour productivity		24
1.3.8.2 Capacity utilization		25
1.3.8.3 Surplus generation		27
2 THE BASIC INDUSTRY STRATEGY: PRESENTATION AND INTER- PRETATION		28
2.1 The national goals		28
2.2 Estimation of the resources		29
2.2.1 Capital		30
2.2.2 Foreign exchange		31
2.2.3 Manpower		32
2.2.4 Natural resources		33

2.3	Selection of industrial activities	page 33
2.3.1	Description of five alternative strategies	34
2.3.2	Comparison of the five strategies	37
2.4	Salient features of the formulation of the industrial strategy	42
2.4.1	The planning method	42
2.4.2	Detailed planning	43
2.4.3	The investment possibilities and selection of strategy	44
2.4.4	The foreign exchange constraint	46
2.4.5	The manpower constraint	47
2.4.6	Location	48
2.4.7	Linkages	48
2.4.8	Manufactured exports	49
2.4.9	Control of technical assistance and foreign aid	50
2.4.10	Relation between large and small industries	50
2.4.11	Sequencing	50
2.4.12	Choice of technology	51
PART II: THE BASIC INDUSTRY STRATEGY: PROBLEMS AND LIMITATIONS		53
3	CHOICE OF TECHNOLOGY, TRANSFER OF TECHNOLOGY AND TECHNOLOGY POLICY	54
3.1	Choice of technology	54
3.1.1	Definition of technology	54
3.1.2	Choice of technology: summary of the debate	55
3.2	Transfer of technology	61
3.2.1	The concept	61
3.2.2	Some issues in transfer of technology	61
3.3	The relationship between choice of technology and transfer of technology	62
3.4	Choice of technology, transfer of technology and technological development in Tanzania	64
3.4.1	Source of foreign finance	64
3.4.2	Response to the managerial and technical skills constraint	67
3.4.3	Response to product quality and consumption technology	69

3.5	The industrial strategy and the implications on choice of technology, transfer of technology and technological development	page 71
3.5.1	Utilization of social resources	72
3.5.1.1	Human resources	72
3.5.1.2	Utilization of local material resources	74
3.5.2	Demand for products of the domestic capital goods sector	75
3.5.3	Surplus generation and capital accumulation	80
3.5.4	Minimization of X-inefficiency	82
3.5.5	Impact on foreign exchange	82
3.5.6	Transfer of technology effects	83
3.6	Conclusion	83
4	PROBLEMS OF ECONOMIES OF SCALE IN INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT	85
4.1	Some general aspects of economies of scale	85
4.1.1	Introductory notes	85
4.1.2	Economies of scale as a macro-economic phenomenon	87
4.1.3	Economies of scale in terms of capacity or size at the plant level	90
4.1.4	Summary of empirical evidence on economies of scale	103
4.1.5	The problem of determining the minimum economic size of plants	107
4.1.6	The problem of determining the optimum plant size	109
4.2	The case of iron and steel production in Tanzania	116
4.2.1	The status of the iron and steel industry within the basic industries strategy	116
4.2.2	Projections of consumption of iron and steel in Tanzania	118
4.2.3	Cost and scale of a possible iron and steel works in Tanzania	126
4.2.4	Prospects for the world market of iron and steel and the outlook for Tanzanian imports in the next two decades	135
4.2.5	Appendix to chapter 4.2: Some comments on LURGI's feasibility study of an integrated steel plant in Tanzania	145

4.3.1	The status of the pulp and paper industry within the basic industries strategy	149
4.3.2	Economies of scale within the pulp and paper industry	150

4.3.3	Projections of consumption of paper in Tanzania and necessary exports from the Southern Paper Mill	page 151
4.3.4	Economic viability of the Southern Paper Mill	160
4.3.5	Conclusion	167
5	ON THE ISSUE OF LINKAGES AND SEQUENCING IN THE BASIC INDUSTRIES STRATEGY	169
5.1	The concept of linkages in the basic industries strategy	169
5.2	Direct linkages	171
5.3	A measure of direct as well as indirect linkages	174
5.4	Review of some theoretical criticisms of linkage indices	178
5.5	Some observations on linkages in the Tanzanian economy	181
5.5.1	Introduction	181
5.5.2	Review of a study of the 1970 input - output table (Kim 1976)	182
5.5.3	Backward and forward linkage indices derived from the 1976 input - output table	187
5.6	Conclusion	190
PART III: DEVELOPMENT THROUGH FOREIGN AID OR THROUGH INTERNAL MECHANISMS?		191
6	FOREIGN AID AND ECONOMIC GROWTH IN THE 1970s WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO THE MANUFACTURING SECTOR	192
6.1	Foreign aid and the growth of the monetary sector	192
6.2	Developments within the manufacturing sector in the 1970s	202
6.3	Why foreign aid failed to bring about a process of self-sustained growth in the 1970s	211
6.4	Concluding remarks	213
7	THE ROLE OF AGRICULTURE IN INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT	216
7.1	Introduction	216
