

Manfred O. Hinz, F. Thomas Gatter (Eds.)

GLOBAL RESPONSIBILITY – LOCAL AGENDA

The legitimacy of modern self-determination and African traditional authority

Contents

Preface 7

G. Hilliges, Global Responsibility as a Local Agenda 11

M. O. Hinz, The project of “tradition”: Constitutionalism in Africa 17

B. Benzing, Legitimacy, legitimacy crises of traditional rule in northern Ghana and the role of the state 29

E. Okupa, The past on the present: Kasikili/Sedudu Island case 41

G. Töttemeyer, The legitimacy of modern self-government – the Namibian case 63

D. Schefold, Local self-government: the enlightening case of Germany 85

H. Kammerer-Grothaus, Authority and the portrait of the ruler – Africa between tradition and modernity 89

D. Quintern, Direct democracy, alternative to representative forms of government: the Socialist Libyan Arab People’s Gamahiriyya and the DRC 99

B. Katjaerua, The divided legitimacy. Lessons from empirical research in Namibia 111

B. Oomen, “Walking in the middle of the road”: people’s perspectives on the legitimacy of traditional leadership in Sekhukhune, South Africa 127

Th. Gatter, Claims and Challenges 175

Ö. Ülgen, Aboriginal title and the right of internal self-determination under the South African Constitution 189

G. Stuby, Autochthonous peoples and their international legal protection – 16 theses 203

N. Olivier, The South African constitutional, policy and statutory framework for traditional leadership and institutions 213

M. Wulfmeyer, Environmental education for sustainable development in Namibia - a case study research on teachers’ perceptions 239

H. Patemann, The African local and the global. Frame of thought, legitimacy and changing tasks 257

M. O. Hinz, The rule of law and the new African constitutionalism: which law and which state? Theory and experience 273