

Philosophical Witnessing

The Holocaust as Presence

BEREL LANG

« Contents »

Preface xi

Acknowledgments xvii

« I » THE HOLOCAUST AT PHILOSOPHY'S ADDRESS

1. Philosophical Witnessing:
“... And only I have survived to tell you” 3
2. Truth at Risk and the Holocaust's Response 17
3. Evil and Understanding: A Holocaust Dilemma 33
4. Jaspers' Die Schuldfrage: A Presence Early and Late 57

« II » VS. THE UNSPEAKABLE, THE UNSHOWABLE,
AND THE UNTHINKABLE

5. Holocaust-Representation in the Genre of Silence 77
6. Representation and *Mis*representation:
On or about the Holocaust 92
7. Applied Ethics, Post-Holocaust 112
8. The Jewish Declaration of War against the Nazis 125

« III » THE PRESENCE AS FUTURE

9. From the Holocaust to Group Rights:
Minorities in a Majority World 139
10. Metaphysical Racism
(Or: Biological Warfare by Other Means) 156
11. Hyphenated-Jews and the Anxiety of Identity 171
12. Reconciliation: Not Revenge, Not Forgiveness,
Perhaps Not Even Justice 187

AFTERWORD
Wound and Scar 203

Appendix:
*Convention on the Prevention and Punishment
of the Crime of Genocide* 207

Notes 211

Index 231