

Computerization in Developing Countries

Model and Reality

Per Lind

London and New York

Contents

List of tables	ix
List of figures	xi
Preface	xiii
Part I Computers, models and developing countries	1
1 Introduction	3
2 Computers in developing countries	7
3 Model and reality – a conceptual discussion	22
4 Industrial production as a model	31
Part II From model to reality – Egypt	51
5 Industry in Egypt	55
6 NASCO – a company presentation	66
7 Vehicle production at NASCO	74
8 Materials management at NASCO	83
Part III Model and reality – a critical view	101
9 Materials management at NASCO – an analysis	103
10 Computerization at NASCO – illusions and achievements	133
11 The NASCO analysis in perspective	145
Some concluding reflections	153
12 Computerization in developing countries – model and reality	155
	vii

Contents

Notes	158
Bibliography	161
Index	168