

Industrial Economics for Countries in Transition

Evidence from Eastern Europe and Asia Pacific

Edited by Philippe R. Scholtès

United Nations
Industrial Development Organization

Edward Elgar
Cheltenham, UK • Brookfield, US

Contents

Tables	ix
Figures	xi
Abbreviations and acronyms	xii
Foreword	xiv
 PART I GENERAL ISSUES ON ECONOMIC REFORMS AND INDUSTRIAL RESTRUCTURING IN TRANSITION COUNTRIES
1. Long-term perspectives on economic reform and industrial restructuring	3
G. Chris Rodrigo
Introduction: objectives of economic reform and preconditions	3
What is the real wealth of nations?	8
Sources of productivity growth in East and South-East Asia	11
How can high productivity growth be achieved?	14
Productivity growth in industrial organizations	15
How institutions and human capital contribute to ECN	22
Conclusion: building economic capability	25
Appendix 1. What economic reform should bring about	28
Appendix 2. Skill accumulation through learning in industry	33
2. Eastern European lessons on economic restructuring: a synthesis of the literature	39
Konstantine Gatsios
Introduction	39

Tax reform	41
Trade policy reforms	44
Enterprise reform	45
The role of the financial sector	49
Income policies	50
3. Restructuring of public enterprises and privatization	54
Nilgün Gökçür
Introduction	54
Impetus for restructuring and privatization	55
Objectives of public enterprise restructuring and privatization	56
Factors promoting successful restructuring programmes and privatization	57
Obstacles to successful restructuring and privatization	61
Selection of public enterprises for restructuring and privatization	65
Means of restructuring public enterprises	66
Modalities of restructuring and privatizing public enterprises	68
Conclusion	74
4. Institutional support to restructuring: the Treuhandanstalt in Germany	78
Christa Luft
The pre-1989 era	78
The fall of the Berlin wall	78
From the fall of the Berlin wall to reunification	80
The post-unification period: a new mandate for the Treuhandanstalt	80
The privatization experience	81
The achievements	82
Conclusions	84
5. Economic reforms, industrial restructuring and multi-agent decision-making	85
Philippe R. Scholtès
General background	85

Formulation of industrial strategies	86
From the market paradigm to the real economy	88
Uncertainty and cooperative games: an axiomatic analysis	89
An interactive decision-making process for policy formulation	95
The emerging Government-industry relationship	97
6. Capital inflows and technology transfers in developing countries	105
Philippe R. Scholtès
Introduction: the driving forces of globalization	105
Forms of globalization at the process level	106
Trends	108
Corporate strategies and instruments	112
Implications for developing countries	114
Policy response	117
PART II PROSPECTS FOR INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT IN THE RED RIVER DELTA (VIET NAM): A CASE-STUDY	121
Philippe R. Scholtès and Hai Nguyen Thanh
7. Premises	123
Background of the report: the Red River Delta Master Plan	123
Emerging shortcomings	124
Scope of the study	124
8. Overall policy, regulatory and institutional framework	126
Macroeconomic policies	127
The regulatory framework	130
The institutional set-up	133
9. Resource base and current manufacturing patterns in the Red River Delta	136

Manufacturing activity in the RRD: some factual evidence	136
Major industries	140
Industrial organization	148
10. Prospects for manufacturing growth in the Red River Delta: elements of strategic planning	151
Conceptual issues	151
Development objectives of the Government for the Red River Delta	152
The constraints	155
Tentative assessment of comparative advantages in manufacturing	156
Key strategic options	160
11. Proposals for a programme of action	163
General considerations	163
Specific considerations for the industrialization of the Red River Delta	165
12. Concluding remarks	177
Bibliography (for Part II)	178
Appendix 3. Tables to Part II	181
Index	191