

Central Problems of Medieval Jewish Philosophy

by
Dov Schwartz

BRILL
LEIDEN • BOSTON
2005

CONTENTS

Prologue .....	ix
Chapter 1. God .....	1
Introduction.....	1
Divine Knowledge and Immanence—Averroes' Influence .....	6
Avicenna and Averroes .....	6
Objections to "Homonymy"—Gersonides .....	11
God is the Totality of Existents—Moses Narboni, Prat Maimon .....	13
Two Kinds of Existence—Joseph ibn Shem Tov .....	16
God as the Perfect Existence—Samuel ibn Zarza and Abraham Bibago .....	17
The Power of Terminology—Ibn Ezra and After .....	20
The Last Phase .....	23
Chapter 2. Teleology .....	27
Final Cause and Creation .....	27
The Aristotelian Sources .....	28
The Final Cause of All that Exists and of the Species .....	32
Defense of the Argument against the Purposiveness of Reality.....	38
Man as the Goal of the Material World .....	41
Volition and Wisdom .....	46
Implications .....	50
God as a Final Cause .....	52
Maimonidean Sources .....	52
Faith and Heresy .....	55
Chapter 3. The Intellect .....	61
Al-Kindī and al-Fārābī .....	62
Isaac Israeli and Shem Tov Falaquera .....	64
Hayyim Israeli and Shem Tov ibn Mayor .....	66

Chapter 4. Miracles .....	71
Stages .....	74
First Steps: The Debate up to the Twelfth Century .....	75
Ibn Ezra and Maimonides: Ambiguity .....	78
The Power of Clarity: Gersonides and His Influence .....	84
Consequences of Ambiguity: (1) Interpretations of the Guide of the Perplexed .....	92
Consequences of Ambiguity: (2) Polemics over the Guide of the Perplexed .....	96
Natural Interpretation: Ibn Ezra's Allusions .....	102
Partial Miracle, Double, and Triple: The Non-radical Positions .....	105
Conclusion .....	113
 Chapter 5. Polemics .....	 117
Science .....	117
The Value of Science .....	119
The Debate over the Implications of Science .....	125
Conclusion .....	135
Providence .....	136
Two Thirteenth-Century Interpretations of the Maimonidean Notion of Providence .....	136
The Traditionalist Interpretation .....	140
Defence of Maimonides' Theory of Providence .....	143
Conclusion .....	148
 Chapter 6. Esotericism .....	 149
Introduction .....	149
Types of Contradiction .....	150
Motives .....	153
Judaism vs. Other Religions .....	154
Judah Halevi .....	156
Intention and Action .....	160
Refutation of the Philosopher and the Philosophers .....	170
Attributes and Creation .....	175
Conclusion .....	180
Gersonides .....	181
The Sages of the Torah vs. the Philosopher .....	184
Avicenna and Averroes .....	191

Equivalence (1): Contra “Absolute Homonymy” .....	196
Equivalence (2): Active Cause .....	203
Maimonides’ View as a Didactic Tool .....	206
Providence and Knowledge: Book Four .....	210
Knowledge and Ontology: Book Five .....	213
Multiplicity in Divine Knowledge: The Argument with Averroes .....	214
Conclusion .....	219
 Chapter 7. Circles .....	 223
Spanish vs. Provençal Culture .....	227
What is a “Circle”? .....	232
Rashba’s Philosophically Inclined Disciples in the 14th Century .....	233
The Circle of Commentators on Kuzari at the Beginning of the 15th Century .....	237
A 14th-Century, Radically Inclined Neoplatonist Circle .....	242
Conclusion .....	247
 Epilogue. Is It Possible to Write a History of Jewish Thought? .....	 249
Criteria .....	249
The Status of Reason .....	252
Opposite Symmetries .....	255
Prospective Audiences .....	256
Developments .....	259
Philosophical Circles .....	261
Toward Open Writing .....	264
 References .....	 267
 Index .....	 275