

Science and Religion Baden Powell and the Anglican debate, 1800-1860

PIETRO CORSI

Università di Cassino

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge

New York New Rochelle

Melbourne Sydney

CONTENTS

Preface	page vii
List of abbreviations	ix

PART I

Biographical introduction	3
1 The Hackney Phalanx: a family network	9
2 Baden Powell's early theological papers	21
3 Baden Powell's reflections on science in the early 1820s	36
4 Science and religion in the 1820s	49
5 Rational Religion Examined	61
6 Baden Powell between Oriel and Hackney	73

PART II

Baden Powell and the Noetic school	83
7 The teaching of Richard Whately	85
8 The collision	96
9 Science and academic politics at Oxford: 1825-1835	106
10 Science and revelation: 1826-1836	124

PART III

The new synthesis and its developments	143
11 The methodology of science	150
(i) Baden Powell and William Whewell: the a priori in science	151
(ii) Cause and effect: the limits of Baden Powell's philosophy	160
(iii) The foundations of geological knowledge	164
(iv) Baden Powell and John Stuart Mill	168
(v) Baden Powell, Auguste Comte and British positivism	174

12	The Christian apologetic and the fallacies of natural theology	178
13	Christian tolerance	194
	(i) The psychological foundations of faith	194
	(ii) New alliances	203
14	The parting of the ways: Baden Powell versus Richard Whately	209
	(i) The last mediation	209
	(ii) Essays and Reviews	215
 PART IV
	The question of species	227
15	The French threat	229
	(i) France and England: hopes and fears	229
	(ii) Geology, philosophy and the species problem: Whewell, Lyell and Baden Powell	242
16	Species without Darwin	250
	(i) Cosmology and the history of life	250
	(ii) The reception of the Vestiges	261
17	Towards the Origin	272
18	Conclusions	286
	Bibliography	292
	Reference works	292
	Manuscripts	293
	Primary sources	293
	Secondary sources	320
	Index	339