Evolution and Revolution in Linguistic Theory

EDITED BY
Héctor Campos and Paula Kempchinsky

Georgetown University Press / Washington, D.C.
Contents

Preface xi

LUIGI BURZIO
On the Metrical Unity of Latinate Affixes 1
1. Introduction 1
2. Basic framework 5
3. Stress neutrality and weak syllables 9
4. Arguments against stress evasion 10
5. Conclusion 21
Notes 22
References 24

HÉCTOR CAMPOS
Reconstruction and Picture Nouns in Spanish 25
1. Four problems for reconstruction in Spanish 25
2. On the structure of picture nouns 25
3. Solving the paradox 36
4. Some potential counterexamples and speculations 38
Notes 44
References 48

NOAM CHOMSKY
Bare Phrase Structure 51
1. Some leading ideas in the study of language 51
2. Minimalist program 55
3. Computational system 58
4. Phrase markers in a minimalist framework 61
5. Properties of the transformational component 69
6. Order 79
JOSEPH E. EMONDS

Deep, Free, and Surface Bound Pronouns 110

1. Two levels of lexical insertion 110
2. General properties of pronouns 113
3. Free pronouns as deep surface pronouns 121
4. Bound pronouns as surface pronouns 125
5. Overview of mechanisms in the personal pronoun system 129

Notes 132
References 136

ROBERT FREIDIN

Superiority, Subjacency, and Economy 138

Notes 158
References 165

JAMES HARRIS

The Morphology of Spanish Clitics 168

1. Introduction 168
2. The syntax-morphology connection 171
3. Internal structure of clitics; syncretism and form classes 173
4. Morphological feature geometry 179
5. More on plurality 181
6. Sequencing 187
7. Conclusion 189
8. Postscript 190

Notes 194
References 197
RAY JACKENDOFF
The Conceptual Structure of Intending and Volitional Action 198
1. Introduction 198
2. Predicates with actions as arguments 199
3. Syntactic expression of situational and actional attitudes 202
4. Temporal dependency of intending 206
5. The folk metaphysics of volitional actions 208
6. Intending, doing something intentionally, the volitionality of action, trying, and imperatives 212
7. Fulfilling versus voiding an intention 218
Notes 222
References 226

PAULA KEMPCHINSKY
From the Lexicon to the Syntax: The Problem of Subjunctive Clauses 228
1. Introduction 228
2. Subjunctive clauses in Spanish patterns of acquisition and loss 229
3. Approaches to lexicon-to-syntax mapping 231
4. Selection for subjunctive CPs 238
5. Extended projections, acquisition, and minimalism 242
Notes 246
References 248

HOWARD LASNIK
Verbal Morphology: Syntactic Structures Meets the Minimalist Program 251
Appendix 269
Notes 270
References 273
CLAUDIA PARODI
Participle Agreement and Object Shift in Old Spanish:
A Minimalist Theory Approach 276
1. Introduction 276
2. Theoretical background 277
3. The structure of Object Shift Constructions 280
4. OSC with compound tenses 282
5. More evidence on participle to auxiliary incorporation 286
6. The position of shifted objects 288
7. Other constructions with participal agreement 288
8. Movement of the participle 295
9. The loss of Object Shift Constructions 297
Notes 297
References 300

CARLOS PIERA
On Compounding in English and Spanish 302
1. Introduction 302
2. Compounding with lexical insertion 302
3. A proposed restriction 305
4. Some related issues 308
5. A remark on Noun Incorporation 311
Notes 313
References 314

CARLOS QUICOLI
NP Traces and the ECP/Binding Overlap 316
1. The ECP/Binding overlap 316
2. Brief review: Binding principles and the ECP 317
3. NP-Traces: Binding and the standard ECP 320
4. Barriers and Binding Domains 335
5. Conclusion 348
Notes 349
References 353
DOMINIQUE SPORTICHE
Sketch of a Reductionist Approach to Syntactic Variation and Dependencies 356
1. Some restrictive boundary conditions 356
2. Types of syntactic dependencies 366
3. Unifying head/head relations 370
4. Unifying phrase/phrase relations 375
5. Questions 379
Notes 392
References 396

ESTHER TORREGO
On the Nature of Clitic Doubling 399
1. Introduction 399
2. Transitive verbs that select D 401
3. On the syntactic effects of D 409
Notes 415
References 417