PART I INTERNATIONAL COMMODITY TRADE

Introduction	3
1 The Determinants of International Commodity Trade	6
2 The Empirical Analysis of Commodity Trade	15

PART II COMMODITY TRADE THEORY

Introduction	27
3 The Demand for Traded Commodities	30
4 The Supply of Traded Commodities	48
5 Equilibrium Conditions in Commodity Trade	58
6 Summary	65

PART III DYNAMICS OF COMMODITY TRADE

Introduction	71
7 Specification Strategy	73
8 The Demand Functions	86
9 The Supply Functions	103
10 Summary	111

PART IV EMPIRICAL ANALYSIS OF COMMODITY TRADE

Introduction	115
11 Testing Development Trade Theories	117
12 Commodity Exports of Latin America	129
13 The Demand for Commodity Imports	139
14 The Demand for Commodity Exports	157
15 Characterization of Commodity Export Supply	172
16 Commodity Market Price Formation	189
17 Summary	214

PART V MODELLING TRADE REPERCUSSIONS AND TRADE POLICIES

	Introduction	219
18	The International Transmission of Income Changes	220
19	Optimal Export Policies	242
20	Trade Liberalization	257
21	Summary	284

List of Tables

11.1	Growth rates of real values of trade and economic activity, 1960–1987	118
12.1	Percentage contribution of major commodity exports of Latin America to total exports, 1970–1987 average	130
12.2	Distribution of Latin America's major commodity exports by principal geographic market	133
12.3	Growth rates of real values of imports and economic activity of the industrialized countries and of major commodity exports of Latin America, 1961–1987	136
13.1	Income distribution elasticities	142
13.2	Import demand functions of principal export markets	143
13.3	Aggregate import demand functions of selected commodities in principal markets	146
13.4	Average lag response of import prices to a one-time change in market price	152
14.1	Elasticities of substitution for commodity exports	158
14.2	Distribution of error-correction coefficients	163
14.3	Dynamic equilibrium solution of export demand function	165
15.1	Export supply response to price change	174
15.2	Initial lag structures of export supply functions	178
15.3	Illustration of summary statistics to describe lag distribution	184
16.1	Consumption functions	192
16.2	Short-term price and income elasticities of consumption	194
16.3	Production functions	196
16.4	Stock demand functions	204
18.1	Total import response to one-time 1 per cent increase in income	228
18.2	Total export response to one-time 1 per cent increase in foreign income	230
19.1	Export subsidy required to achieve 3 per cent higher export growth rate	252

19.2	Export tax needed to achieve 3 per cent higher growth rate of export earnings	254
20.1	Protection in selected commodities by the USA, the EEC, and Japan, 1984-1986	262
20.2	Ad valorem tariff-equivalent levels in selected commodities in the USA, the EEC, and Japan, 1979-1986	267
20.3	Effect of trade liberalization on US, EEC, and Japanese imports	269
20.4	Simulated world price and quantity effects of trade liberalization in the USA, the EEC, and Japan	278
