

Jutta Leonhardt

Jewish Worship in Philo of Alexandria

Mohr Siebeck

Contents

Preface.....	v
Abbreviations.....	xiii
Chapter I. Jewish Worship – Introduction and Methodology	1
1. Judaism in the First Century.....	1
2. Sources, Methodology, and Definition of Worship.....	3
2.1 Sources.....	3
2.2 Brief survey of scholarship.....	5
2.3 Methodology.....	6
2.4 Definition of Worship.....	7
3. Philo's Use of Λατρεία.....	10
3.1 Linguistic background.....	10
3.2 Λατρεία as service to a master.....	11
3.3 Λατρεία as worship of God.....	12
3.3.1 Jewish worship in general.....	12
3.3.2 Specific aspects of Jewish worship.....	14
3.4 Conclusion.....	15
Chapter II. The Jewish Festivals	18
1. Festivals (έορταί).....	18
1.1 Linguistic background.....	18
1.2 Festivals in general: sacred time and time of joy.....	19
1.3 Definition of a festival.....	21
1.4 Specific Jewish festivals.....	24
1.4.1 The ten universal festivals.....	24
1.4.2 The first festival: Every Day.....	25
1.4.3 The second festival: the Sabbath.....	28
1.4.4 The third festival: the New Moon.....	28
1.4.5 The fourth festival: the Passover.....	29
1.4.6 The fifth festival: the Festival of the Unleavened Bread.....	36
1.4.7 The sixth festival: the Sheaf.....	38
1.4.8 The seventh festival: the Festival of Weeks or of First Produce.....	39
1.4.9 The eighth festival: the Beginning of the Sacred Month with the Trumpet Festival (New Year).....	41
1.4.10 The ninth festival: the Fast (Day of Atonement).....	43

1.4.11 The tenth festival: the Festival of Tabernacles or Booths	45
1.4.12 Local festivals: festivals of certain groups of Jews	47
1.4.12.1 The Alexandrian festival in celebration of the Septuagint	48
1.4.12.2 The great festival of the Therapeutae	48
1.5 Conclusion	51
2. Sabbath and Sabbath Assemblies	53
2.1 The meaning of the Sabbath	53
2.1.1 The terms used for the Sabbath	53
2.1.2 Philo's interpretation of the Sabbath	55
2.1.2.1 The Sabbath and the world	55
2.1.2.2 The Sabbath and God	60
2.2 Sabbath observance	64
2.2.1 Sabbath rest and its laws	64
2.2.2 Details of the Sabbath Halakha	70
2.2.2.1 Common Sabbath customs	70
2.2.2.2 Sabbath observance among specific Jewish groups	73
2.3 The proseuche , the Sabbath assemblies and their teaching	74
2.3.1 The terms for the assembly and its function	74
2.3.2 The activities in the proseuche on the Sabbath	81
2.3.2.1 The proseuche as a Hellenistic school of philosophy	81
2.3.2.2 The Sabbath assemblies in non-sectarian proseuchai	83
2.3.2.3 The Sabbath assemblies of specific Jewish groups	86
2.3.3 The bible instruction in the proseuchai	88
2.3.3.1 General bible exposition	89
2.3.3.2 The bible instruction of specific Jewish groups	91
2.3.3.3 Allegorical bible teaching	93
2.4 Conclusion	95
Chapter III. Prayer and Praise	101
1. Prayer in Philo (εὐχή)	101
1.1 Linguistic outline	101
1.2 References to biblical prayers in Philo	102
1.3 Prayer as supplication	104
1.3.1 General Hellenistic prayers	104
1.3.2 The attributes of God addressed in prayer	105
1.3.3 Israel's special position among the nations	108
1.3.4 The object of true prayer	111
1.3.5 Εὐχή as blessing	114
1.4 Vows	117
1.4.1 The Nazirite vow: ἡ μεγάλη εὐχή	117
1.4.2 The purpose of a vow	121
1.4.3 The vows of women	123
1.4.4 The vows of spoils	124
1.5 Prayer and worship	124
1.5.1 Solitary prayer	124
1.5.2 Communal prayer	125
1.5.3 Prayer and women's worship	125

1.5.4 The prayer of the Therapeutae.....	126
1.5.5 Worship as prayer and sacrifices	127
1.5.5.1 The High Priest's worship.....	128
1.5.5.2 Prayers and sacrifices.....	129
1.5.6 Prayer for the remission of sins	132
1.5.7 Prayer on specific occasions.....	133
1.5.8 Prayer gestures.....	135
1.5.9 The correct attitude towards prayer.....	136
1.6 Prayer and thanksgiving	137
1.7 Conclusion.....	138
2. Psalms, Hymns, and Praise.....	142
2.1 The psalm quotations in Philo's writings	142
2.1.1 The selection of Philonic texts.....	143
2.1.2 Philo's Psalter.....	144
2.1.3 Introduction and text of Philo's psalm quotations.....	147
2.1.3.1 The psalmist.....	147
2.1.3.2 Introduction of quotation strings	150
2.1.3.3 Introduction by reference to the singing or reciting of the Psalter	151
2.1.3.4 Philo's use of the Septuagint text of the psalms.....	151
2.1.4 Examples for Philo's use of the psalms.....	153
2.1.4.1 The quotation of the same psalm in different contexts.....	153
2.1.4.2 The combination of psalms to make an exegetical point	154
2.1.4.3 Psalm quotations proving ideas which lack proof from the Pentateuch	155
2.2 Philo's account of psalm and hymn singing in Jewish worship	156
2.2.1 Linguistic background	156
2.2.2 The problem of the recitation of psalms and hymns.....	158
2.2.3 Singing in Philo's idea of worship.....	159
2.2.3.1 Philo's theory of singing and music.....	159
2.2.3.2 Hymnody as praise.....	160
2.2.3.3 Philo's reference to biblical hymns.....	162
2.2.3.4 Philo's references to the hymnody of his time	167
2.3 Conclusion.....	172
3. Thanksgiving.....	175
3.1 Linguistic background.....	175
3.2 Verbal thanksgiving.....	176
3.3 Thanksgiving and acts of worship.....	177
3.3.1 Thanksgiving and worship in general.....	177
3.3.2 Thanksgiving and specific aspects of worship.....	179
3.3.2.1 Festivals.....	179
3.3.2.2 Prayer, vows, and hymns	180
3.3.2.3 Offerings.....	182
3.3.2.4 Sacrifices	184
3.4 Conclusion.....	188

Chapter IV. Temple Tax, Sacrifices, and Purification	190
1. Temple Tax and Temple Offerings (ἀπαρχή).....	190
1.1 Linguistic background.....	190
1.2 Tithes and first-fruit offerings.....	192
1.2.1 The festivals concerned with the first-fruits.....	192
1.2.2 The offerings of Cain and Abel	197
1.2.3 First-born children.....	198
1.2.4 The offering of first fruits in the symbolic sense	199
1.3 Temple offerings and Temple tax.....	201
1.3.1 The Levites in connection with Temple offerings and taxes	201
1.3.2 Temple taxes and offerings as income for the officiating priests.....	202
1.3.3 The priests' reception of the offerings.....	205
1.3.4 The laws for the Temple tax and their observance in Philo's time.....	207
1.3.5 The ruling powers and the Jewish Temple taxes.....	209
1.4 Conclusion.....	211
2. Sacrifices (θυσία).....	214
2.1 Linguistic background.....	214
2.2 Philo's references to biblical sacrifices.....	215
2.2.1 Cain's sacrifice and the sacrifice of first-fruits.....	215
2.2.2 Melchizedek's sacrifices	216
2.2.3 The consecration of the Tabernacle.....	217
2.3 Sacrifices and the Temple.....	218
2.3.1 The Temple as the place for sacrifices.....	218
2.3.2 The sacrifices and the Temple in the first century CE	220
2.3.3 The altar as sacrifice-keeper.....	222
2.4 Sacrifices in connection with other acts of worship	223
2.4.1 Sacrifices and festive days	223
2.4.2 The sacrifice on specific festivals	224
2.5 The priests' role in the sacrifices.....	228
2.5.1 Ordinary priests	228
2.5.2 The High Priest.....	230
2.6 The requirements for sacrifices	233
2.6.1 The sacrificial animals.....	233
2.6.2 The attitude of the worshippers	235
2.6.3 The purity of the worshippers.....	240
2.7 The various kinds of sacrifices.....	241
2.7.1 The three types of sacrifices.....	242
2.7.2 Details of the whole burnt-offering.....	248
2.7.3 The grain-offering.....	249
2.7.4 Sacrifices as thanksgiving.....	251
2.8 Conclusion.....	251
3. Purification.....	256
3.1 Purity in Philo (ἀγνεία).....	256
3.1.1 Linguistic background	256
3.1.2 Chastity.....	257
3.1.3 Ritual purity and virtue.....	258
3.1.4 Conclusion	260

3.2 Sprinkling (περιρραντήριον, περιρραίνω).....	261
3.2.1 Linguistic background	261
3.2.2 Purification before the contact with the divine.....	261
3.2.3 Purification defining the borders of the sacred compound.....	262
3.2.4 Sprinkling with ashes	264
3.2.5 External and internal purification	266
3.2.6 Conclusion	267
3.3 Lustration (λούω).....	269
3.3.1 Linguistic background	269
3.3.2 Washing after sexual intercourse.....	269
3.3.3 Ritual washing.....	270
3.3.4 Conclusion	271
3.4 Conclusion.....	271
Chapter V. Jewish Worship in Philo	273
1. A Profile of Jewish Worship According to Philo.....	273
2. Philo and Jewish Worship in the Second Temple period.....	278
2.1 Philo as a source for Jewish customs of his time.....	278
2.2 Philo and the various Jewish traditions.....	280
2.3 Philo and other Hellenistic Jewish attempts at integration of Jewish and Greek culture	280
3. Philo's Judaism and Pagan Worship.....	283
3.1 Philo's description of Jewish worship and Greek social and cultic practice.....	283
3.2 Philo's description of Jewish worship and the philosophers' attitudes to religion.....	283
3.3 Philo and Plato's Nomoi	286
3.3.1 The Laws and their divine origin: the divine Torah.....	286
3.3.2 The legislator as educator and the Jewish Sabbath	286
3.3.3 Music, harmony, and praise.....	287
3.3.4 The legislation's direction towards the virtue of God.....	288
3.3.5 The justification of religious laws: their social importance and divine authorisation.....	290
3.3.6 The festivals.....	291
3.3.7 Conclusion	292
4. Philo's Ideal of Jewish Worship.....	293
4.1 The rites of Jewish worship.....	293
4.2 The symbolic interpretation of Jewish worship.....	294
4.3 The vision of Jewish worship.....	294
Bibliography	297

Index of Biblical References	321
Index of References to Philo	326
Index of References to Other Ancient Texts	333
Index of Modern Authors	336
Index of Greek Words	340
Subject Index	343