

Sybille Küster

African Education in Colonial
Zimbabwe, Zambia and Malawi

Government Control, Settler Antagonism and African Agency, 1890–1964

CONTENTS

PART ONE: COLONIAL EDUCATION IN HISTORIOGRAPHY AND THEORY	1
1. Introduction: African Education in the Context of African and Colonial Zimbabwean Historiography	1
2. Theoretical Approaches and Paradigms in the Research on Colonial Education With Particular Reference to Colonial Zimbabwe	7
2.1 Modernization Theory and the 'Colonial Apologist' Approach	7
2.2 The Underdevelopment School of Thought	11
2.3 The Gramscian Concept of Hegemony	22
2.4 Hypotheses and Theoretical Guidelines	35
PART TWO: AFRICAN EDUCATION IN COLONIAL ZIMBABWE	37
3. The Precolonial Period: The Relationships Between Africans and Missionaries	37
3.1 Early Missionary Failure	37
3.2 The African Approach to Early Missionary Endeavors	39
3.3 Concluding Remarks	43
4. Colonial Education in the First Three Decades of Colonial Rule, 1890 - 1920	45
4.1 Mission Establishment, Educational Policies and Objectives	45
4.2 The Background of Government Involvement in African Education	49
4.3 Mission - Government Relationships	50
4.3.1 Cooperation and Shared Views	51
4.3.1.1 The Early Inclusion of Practical Training Into Mission School Curricula	56
4.3.2 Clashes of Interest and Conflicting Views	57
4.3.2.1 The Desirability of African Education	57
4.3.2.2 The Contents and Priorities of Colonial Schooling	59
4.3.2.3 The Financing of African Education	64
4.4 Summary	66
4.5 The African Response to Colonial Education and Missionary Activities	67
4.5.1 Growing African Demand and Enrollment	67

4.5.2	The Selectiveness of African Approaches to Mission Education: Factors Which Slowed Down the Expansion of Missionary Schooling	69
4.5.3	The Background of Increased African Enrollment and Mission Affiliation	72
4.5.4	The African Impact on Educational Practice and Contents	79
4.6	The Impact of Mission Education and Christianization Efforts on African Social and Cultural Practices and Life-Styles	82
4.7	Summary	87
4.8	Conclusions	89
5.	The Development of African Education in the Inter-War Period: 1920 - 1945	92
5.1	The Impact of Government and Missionary Policies on Educational Practice in African Schools	92
5.1.1	The Nature and Background of Increased Government Involvement	92
5.1.2	The Keigwin Scheme: The Promotion of Simple Agricultural and Industrial Training in the Context of Racial Segregation	96
5.1.3	Settler Attitudes Towards African Education	97
5.1.4	Mission Cooperation With Government Educational Policies	101
5.1.5	The Phelps-Stokesist Concept of 'Adapted' Education	102
5.1.6	The Implementation of an 'Adapted' Form of Colonial Schooling	108
5.1.7	Government Reluctance to Foster African Educational Development	117
5.2	Government - Missionary Conflicts and Differences of Opinion	121
5.3	Summary	129
5.4	The African Approach to Colonial Education and the Missions After the First World War	132
5.4.1	The Increase in African Enrollment and Demands For Educational Facilities	132
5.4.2	The Normative Function of the Colonizers' Culture	134
5.4.3	The Continued Selectiveness of African Responses to Mission Education	135
5.4.4	Social and Economic Reasons For the Overall Increase in African Demands For Education	137
5.4.5	The Nature and Background of African Educational Preferences	144
5.4.6	African Attempts At Shaping the Nature and Extent of Educational Provision	156
5.5	The Question of 'Cultural Imperialism'	163
5.6	Summary	168

5.7	Conclusions	173
6.	The Development of the Colonial Education System After the Second World War: 1945 - 1962	177
6.1	The Mechanisms of African Educational Expansion and Improvement	178
6.2	The Hampering Influence of Settler Antagonism on African Educational Provision	181
6.2.1	Advanced Education and Skilled Labor	181
6.2.2	The Scope and Limited Impact of Todd's Five-Year-Plan	183
6.3	The Nature and Impact of African and Missionary Initiative in Educational Development	190
6.3.1	Rising African Demand and Enrollment	190
6.3.2	The Socio-Economic Background of Increased African Demands For Education	191
6.3.3	African Educational Preferences and Aspirations	192
6.3.4	Colonial Education and the Rise of African Nationalism	193
6.3.5	African Rural Communities' Struggle For Educational Expansion and Improvement	196
6.3.6	The Mangwende Reserve Council	199
6.3.7	The Impact of African and Missionary Initiative on Educational Development	202
6.4	Summary	202
	PART THREE: AFRICAN EDUCATION IN COLONIAL MALAWI AND ZAMBIA: A TESTING GROUND	204
7.	The Dynamics of Colonial Educational Development in Malawi and Zambia	207
7.1	The Dynamics of Colonial Educational Development in Malawi	207
7.1.1	The Background of Government Educational Policies	208
7.1.2	The Motives and Scope of Missionary Educational Activities	213
7.1.3	The Forces of Educational Expansion	216
7.1.3.1	The Struggle for Government Support	216
7.1.3.2	The Establishment of an Education Department and Pre-World-War-II Developments	218
7.1.3.3	The Introduction of African Secondary Education	222
7.1.3.4	African Education Plans and Post-World-War-II Developments	226
7.1.4	African Independent Educational Initiatives	228
7.1.5	Summary	230
7.2	The Dynamics of Colonial Educational Development in Zambia	232
7.2.1	The Background of Government Educational Policies	233

7.2.2	The Scope of Missionary Educational Activities and Early Struggles for Government Support	236
7.2.3	The Establishment of an Education Department and Pre-World-War-II Developments	239
7.2.4	Urban and Secondary Education	242
7.2.5	Post-World-War-II Developments	246
7.3	Conclusions	250
8.	The Socio-Economic, Cultural and Political Rationale of the African Response to Colonial Education in Malawi and Zambia	252
8.1	The Socio-Economic, Cultural and Political Rationale of the African Response to Colonial Education in Malawi	252
8.1.1	The Selectiveness of African Approaches to the Missionary Presence: Factors Which Slowed Down the Expansion of Education	252
8.1.2	The Socio-Economic and Political Background of Increased African Enrollment and Mission Affiliation	254
8.1.2.1	The Missions as Allies and Intermediaries in Times of Insecurity, Turmoil and Change	254
8.1.2.2	Cultural Techniques and Community Gains	256
8.1.2.3	Shelter and Assistance to the Structurally Disadvantaged Strata of African Society	258
8.1.2.4	The (Narrow) Path to Agricultural Prosperity	260
8.1.2.5	Rural Impoverishment and the Pursuit of Remunerative Employment	261
8.1.2.6	The Struggle for Socio-Economic and Political Advancement	266
8.1.3	Summary	268
8.2	The Socio-Economic, Cultural and Political Rationale of the African Response to Colonial Education in Zambia	270
8.2.1	Factors Which Hampered African Mission Affiliation and School Enrollment	271
8.2.2	The Socio-Economic and Political Context of Rising African Enrollment and Mission Affiliation	271
8.2.2.1	Times of Turmoil, Community Gains and Assistance to the Structurally Disadvantaged Strata of African Society	271
8.2.2.2	The Road to Peasant Prosperity	274
8.2.2.3	Rural Decline and Wage Labor	276
8.2.2.4	The Struggle for Political Participation and Independence	281
8.3	Conclusions	283

9.	The Contents of African Colonial Education in Malawi and Zambia	285
9.1	The Contents of African Colonial Education in Malawi	285
9.1.1	The Contents of Missionary Education in the Early Decades of Colonial Rule	285
9.1.2	The Impact of Phelps-Stokesism on Local Educational Policies and Practice	289
9.1.3	African Preferences and Attempts to Shape the Nature of Educational Provision	299
9.1.4	Summary	309
9.2	The Contents of African Colonial Education in Zambia	311
9.2.1	Priorities in Mission and Government Educational Policies and Teaching Practice	311
9.2.2	African Preferences and Attempts to Shape the Contents of Education	317
9.3	Conclusions	323
10.	General Conclusions	325
11.	Bibliography	330
11.1	Books and Articles	330
11.2	Theses, Unpublished Papers and Archival Sources	365