

Newly Industrializing Countries and the Political Economy of South–South Relations

Edited by
Jerker Carlsson
*Research Fellow in Economic History
University of Gothenburg, Sweden*

and

Timothy M. Shaw
*Professor of Political Science
Dalhousie University, Nova Scotia*

M
MACMILLAN
PRESS

Contents

List of Tables and Figures	vii
List of Abbreviations	ix
Notes on the Contributors	x
1 Introduction: Newly Industrializing Countries and South-South: Concepts, Correlates, Controversies and Cases Timothy M. Shaw and Jerker Carlsson	1
2 Resisting Structural Adjustment: Conflict over Industrial Policy in Indonesia Richard Robison	23
3 Mexico as a Regional Power Björn Hettne and Thomas Sterner	48
4 India Björn Hettne	76
5 Brazil Georg Sørensen	101
6 Nigeria: The Political Economy of Dependent Industrialization and Foreign Policy Olatunde J.B. Ojo	121
7 Brazilian Trade with West Africa and Angola within the Portuguese Colonial Empire, 1500-1850. The Dialectics of South-South Exchange Jerker Carlsson	151
8 The Brazilian Penetration of Nigeria through Trade: A Case-Study of South-South Trade Relations, 1965-79 Jerker Carlsson	184

9	The Political Economy of South African Penetration of Brazil: The Case of the Anglo American Corporation David Fig	204
10	South Africa and Botswana, Lesotho and Swaziland: A Galtung Approach to Dependence Relations Arnold H. Isaacs	232
11	South Korea and the Ambiguities of South-South Cooperation in the Pacific Rim Tong Whan Park	268
	Selected Bibliography on NICs (post-1980)	295
	Index	299