

Conventional Arms Control and East-West Security

Edited by Robert D. Blackwill and F. Stephen Larrabee

A research volume from the Institute for East-West Security Studies

Duke University Press Durham and London 1989

CONTENTS

List of Acronyms	vii
About the Authors	xi
Foreword	xvii

Editors' Preface xxi

Introduction

Robert D. Blackwill and F. Stephen Larrabee, USA	xxiii
--	-------

I

The General State of European Security

Part One. François Heisbourg, France	1
Part Two. Janusz Symonides, Poland	22

II

The Military Balance in Europe

Part One. Richard L. Kugler, USA	44
Part Two. Alexei G. Arbatov, Nikolai Kishilov, and Oleg Amirov, USSR	66

III

The Political Objectives of Conventional Arms Control

Part One. Ian Cuthbertson, UK	90
Part Two. László Lábodý, Hungary	116

IV

The Military Objectives of Conventional Arms Control

- Part One. K.-Peter Stratmann, FRG 140
Part Two. Alexander A. Konovalov, USSR 164

V

NATO/WTO Military Doctrine

- Part One. Peer H. Lange, FRG 186
Part Two. Andrei A. Kokoshin, USSR 212

VI

Conventional Arms Reduction Approaches

- Part One. David A. Ochmanek
and Edward L. Warner III, USA 231
Part Two. Alexei G. Arbatov, USSR 258

VII

Verifying Conventional Force Reductions and Limitations

- Part One. Jonathan Dean, USA 280
Part Two. Andrzej Karkoszka, Poland 307

VIII

Confidence- and Security-Building Measures

- Part One. Timothy E. Wirth, USA 342
Part Two. Adam-Daniel Rotfeld, Poland 359

IX

Constraints

- Part One. Richard E. Darilek and John K. Setear, USA 379
Part Two. Manfred Mueller, GDR 405

X

Nuclear Weapons and Conventional Arms Control

- Part One. Arnold Kanter, USA 422
Part Two. Alexei A. Vasiliev, USSR 442

Conclusion

- What Next for Conventional Forces in Europe?
Robert D. Blackwill and F. Stephen Larrabee, USA 462

- Index 473