

THE ANCHOR BIBLE REFERENCE LIBRARY

Introduction

to

RABBINIC
LITERATURE

Jacob Neusner

DOUBLEDAY

New York London Toronto Sydney Auckland

CONTENTS

Preface	xiii
Introduction	xix
1. The Judaism Represented by Rabbinic Literature	xx
2. Judaism without Christianity, Judaism despite Christianity	xxii
3. The Perspective of Comparison: If the Literature of Christianity Were Comparable in Character to Rabbinic Literature	xxiii
4. Introducing Rabbinic Literature	xxvi
5. Other Introductions to Rabbinic Literature	xxvii
6. The Documentary Approach to Rabbinic Literature	xxix
PART ONE
RABBINIC LITERATURE AS A WHOLE	1
I. Defining Rabbinic Literature and Its Principal Parts	3
1. The Concept of a Holy Book in the Judaism of the Dual Torah	5

2.	Defining Rabbinic Literature	8
3.	Attributions of Sayings to Sages and Their Place in Rabbinic Literature	14
4.	The Relationships among the Documents of Rabbinic Literature	17
5.	Intertextuality or Intratextuality: Rabbinic Literature as a Community of Texts	19
6.	Compositions and Composites: The Prehistory of Rabbinic Documents	21
II. Distinguishing Documents by Distinctive Characteristics: Rhetoric and Topic		30
1.	Rhetoric, Logic, Topic: The Differentiating Traits of Rabbinic Documents	30
2.	The Rhetoric of Sifré to Deuteronomy	33
3.	The Mishnah's Topical Organization and Its Patterned Language and Forms	34
4.	The Matter of Mnemonics	38
5.	Topical Criteria of Documentary Differentiation	45
III. Documentary Coherence and Differentiation: The Four Logics of Coherent Discourse in Rabbinic Literature		52
1.	Defining Logics of Coherent Discourse	52
2.	The Propositional Logic of Philosophical Discourse	54
3.	The Teleological Logic of Narrative	58
4.	The Non-Propositional Logic of Fixed Association	61
5.	Metapropositional Discourse	66
6.	Tradition, Commentary, and Logic	71
IV. The Dialectical Argument in Rabbinic Literature		73
1.	Defining the Dialectical Argument	73
2.	An Example of a Dialectical Argument	75
3.	The Importance of the Dialectical Argument in Rabbinic Literature	81
4.	The Law behind the Laws	85
5.	The Unity of the Law	88
6.	Dialectics and the Intellectual Dynamics of Rabbinic Literature	93

PART TWO

THE MISHNAH AND ITS EXEGESIS	95
V. The Mishnah	97
1. Identifying the Document	97
2. Translations into English	100
3. Rhetoric	100
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	100
5. Topical Program	104
6. A Sample Passage	111
7. The Critical Place of the Mishnah in Rabbinic Literature	124
VI. The Tosefta	129
1. Identifying the Document	129
2. Translations into English	132
3. Rhetoric	132
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	132
5. Topical Program	133
6. A Sample Passage	134
VII. The Talmud of the Land of Israel	153
1. Identifying the Document	153
2. Translations into English	157
3. Rhetoric and Languages	158
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	161
5. Topical Program	167
6. A Sample Passage	176
VIII. The Talmud of Babylonia	182
1. Identifying the Document	182
2. Translations into English	189
3. Rhetoric	189
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	189
5. Topical Program	190
6. A Sample Passage	190
7. The Comparison and Contrast of the Two Talmuds: How the Bavli Differs from the Yerushalmi	190

8. The Bavli's Unique Hermeneutics	205
9. The Integrity of Truth	215
PART THREE
THE RECEPTION OF SCRIPTURE: THE THREE TYPES OF MIDRASH-EXEGESIS IN RABBINIC LITERATURE
	221
IX. Midrash: Writing with Scripture	223
1. Defining Midrash	223
2. The Documentary Structure of Midrash	225
3. Canonical Recapitulation of Systems	228
4. Writing with Scripture	229
5. The Three Types of Midrash Compilations	230
6. Exegetical Discourse and the Pentateuch	232
7. Philosophical Discourse: From Exegesis to Proposition	235
8. Theological Discourse: Saying One Thing through Many Things	237
9. Symbolic Discourse in Verbal Form in the Middle and Later Midrash Compilations	238
10. The Talmuds and the Midrash Compilations: A Comparison	243
A.
EXEGETICAL DISCOURSE AND THE PENTATEUCH
	247
X. Mekhilta Attributed to R. Ishmael (Exodus)	249
1. Identifying the Document	249
2. Translations into English	252
3. Rhetoric	252
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	254
5. Topical Program	255
6. A Sample Passage	258
XI. Sifra (Leviticus)	271
1. Identifying the Document	271
2. Translations into English	286
3. Rhetoric	286

4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	291
5. Topical Program	292
6. A Sample Passage	294
XII. Sifré to Numbers	305
1. Identifying the Document	305
2. Translations into English	308
3. Rhetoric	309
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	317
5. Topical Program	317
6. A Sample Passage	319
XIII. Sifré to Deuteronomy	328
1. Identifying the Document	328
2. Translations into English	330
3. Rhetoric	330
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	334
5. Topical Program	336
6. A Sample Passage	342
B.
PHILOSOPHICAL DISCOURSE: FROM EXEGESIS TO PROPOSITION	353
XIV. Genesis Rabbah	355
1. Identifying the Document	355
2. Translations into English	359
3. Rhetoric	359
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	361
5. Topical Program	362
6. A Sample Passage	366
XV. Leviticus Rabbah	382
1. Identifying the Document	382
2. Translations into English	387
3. Rhetoric	387
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	389

5. Topical Program	391
6. A Sample Passage	393
XVI. Pesiqta deRab Kahana	411
1. Identifying the Document	411
2. Translations into English	415
3. Rhetoric	415
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	416
5. Topical Program	416
6. A Sample Passage	418
XVII. Pesiqta Rabbati	434
1. Identifying the Document	434
2. Translations into English	437
3. Rhetoric	437
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	437
5. Topical Program	438
6. A Sample Passage	438
7. Comparative Midrash: Numbers 7:1 in Sifré to Numbers, Pesiqta deRab Kahana, and Pesiqta Rabbati	461
C.
THEOLOGICAL DISCOURSE: SAYING ONE THING THROUGH MANY THINGS	465
XVIII. Song of Songs Rabbah	467
1. Identifying the Document	467
2. Translations into English	469
3. Rhetoric	470
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	471
5. Topical Program	471
6. A Sample Passage	474
XIX. Ruth Rabbah	487
1. Identifying the Document	487
2. Translations into English	489
3. Rhetoric	489

4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	490
5. Topical Program	490
6. A Sample Passage	496
XX. Lamentations Rabbati	510
1. Identifying the Document	510
2. Translations into English	511
3. Rhetoric	511
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	512
5. Topical Program	512
6. A Sample Passage	517
XXI. Esther Rabbah Part One	533
1. Identifying the Document	533
2. Translations into English	535
3. Rhetoric	535
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	535
5. Topical Program	536
6. A Sample Passage	541
PART FOUR
WRITING WITHOUT AUTHORS: THE SAGE IN RABBINIC LITERATURE	547
XXII. Rabbinic Literature and Individual Sages: Writing without Authors	549
1. Why No Lives of Saints in Rabbinic Literature?	549
2. Compositions and Composites Focused upon Individual Sages	552
3. The Documents That Rabbinic Literature Omits	557
4. The Sage and the Torah in Rabbinic Literature	566
5. Individuality and Consensus: Named Authors vs. Authorships	568
XXIII. Tractate Abot (The Fathers)	571
1. Identifying the Document	571
2. Translations into English	573
3. Rhetoric	574
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	575
5. Topical Program	575

6. Tractate Abot Chapters Three through Five	581
XXIV. Abot de Rabbi Nathan (The Fathers According to Rabbi Nathan)	591
1. Identifying the Document	591
2. Translations into English	595
3. Rhetoric	596
4. Logic of Coherent Discourse	596
5. Topical Program	598
6. A Sample Passage	600
PART FIVE
THE TARGUMIM	609
XXV. The Targumim in the Context of Rabbinic Literature by Paul V. McCracken Flesher	611
1. Identifying the Documents	612
2. Translations into English	620
3. Sample Passages	621
4. The Place of the Targumim in Rabbinic Literature	626
PART SIX
CONCLUSION	631
XXVI. Rabbinic Literature and the Formation of Judaism	633
Appendix: Two Open Questions in the Study of Rabbinic Literature	651
1. Dating Documents	651
2. The Meaning of Attributions	668
General Index	681
Index to Texts	699