

TOWARDS A CRITICAL SOCIOLINGUISTICS

- Edited by

RAJENDRA SINGH

Université de Montréal

JOHN BENJAMINS PUBLISHING COMPANY
AMSTERDAM/PHILADELPHIA

Contents

List of contributors	xi
Acknowledgements	xii
Introduction R. Singh	I
1 Where Does the Sociolinguistic Variable Stop? B.R. Lavandera	17
2 Syntactic Variation and Dialect Divergence J. Harris	31
3 The Autonomy of Social Variables: The Indian Evidence Revisited R. Singh and J.K. Lele	59
4 The Quiet Demise of Variable Rules R. Fasold	79
5 The Status of Sociological Models and Categories in Explaining Language Variation S. Romaine	99
6 Descriptive and Explanatory Power of Rules in Sociolinguistics N. Dittmar	115
7 Report from an Underdeveloped Country: Toward Linguistic Competence in the United States D. Hymes	151
8 Language Death W.U. Dressler	195

9	Sex Roles, Interruptions and Silences in Conversation D.H. Zimmermann and C. West	211
10	Communication in a Multilingual Society: Some Missed Opportunities R. Singh, J.K. Lele and G. Martohardjono	237
11	The Political Topography of Spanish and English: The View from a New York Puerto Rican Neighborhood B. Urciuoli	255
12	Language Planning As Discourse G. Williams	281
	References	305
	Author index	333
	Language index	338
	Subject index	340