

The Mechanism of Economic Development

Growth in the Japanese and East Asian Economies

KEN-ICHI INADA
SUEO SEKIGUCHI
YASUTOYO SHODA

CLARENDON PRESS · OXFORD

1992

Contents

PART I

The Theoretical Model

1. Introduction and Summary	3
1.1 Introduction	3
1.2 Summary of the Theoretical Model	7
2. Notation and Assumptions	13
3. The Model	21
3.1 The Amount of Accumulated Capital and the Profit Rate	21
3.1.1 The X -sector	21
3.1.2 The Z -sector	22
3.2 The Mathematical Formulation of the Model	24
3.3 The Direction of the Dynamic Path	27
3.4 Features of Dynamic Paths	29
3.5 The Success or Failure of Take-off	32
3.6 Import Tariffs	35
3.7 Technological Progress	38
4. Modification of the Model	41
4.1 Introduction	41
4.2 Modification of the Assumption of Economies of Scale	41
4.3 Limits to the Supply of Industrial Labour	44
4.4 General Labour Shortage	46
4.5 Capital Flows to and from Abroad	48
4.6 Z -Sector Terms of Trade	51
4.7 Food Prices	52
4.8 Investment of Non-wage Income in the S - Sector	53
4.9 Modification of Investment Distribution Functions	53
5. The Agricultural Sector	61
5.1 The Importance of Education and of Reform of the Social Structure	61
5.2 Modernization of the Agricultural Sector	62
6. Implications and Concluding Remarks	65
Appendix	69
Appendix A	69
Appendix B	72
Appendix C	75

PART II

The Economic Development of Japan: Pre-World War II

7. Introduction and Summary	83
7.1 Introduction	83
7.2 Correspondence between Theory and Empirical Test	84
7.3 Summary of Findings	86
7.4 Some Peculiar Conditions	90
8. Classifying Industrial Sectors	92
8.1 Terms of Trade	93
8.2 Production Technology	114
8.3 Statistical Appendix	119
9. The Course of Capital Accumulation	130
9.1 Light Industry (X -sector)	131
9.2 Heavy Industry (Z -sector)	137
9.3 The K_X - K_Z Graph	144
9.4 Profit Rates and Investment Allocation	153
9.5 Some Reservations	170
9.6 Statistical Appendix	172
10. Critical Efforts and Roles of the Government	181
10.1 Roles of Foreign Capital	181
10.2 Operation of Government Enterprises and Subsequent Privatization	189
10.3 Subsidies to Industry and Investment in Social Overhead Capital	205
10.4 The Roles of Import Tariffs	217
10.5 Food Supply, Labour Supply, and Wage Rates	227

PART III

Economic Development of Japan: Post-World War II

11. Introduction and Summary	241
11.1 Introduction	241
11.2 Summary of Findings	242
12. Classification of Industrial Sectors	246
12.1 Terms of Trade	246
12.2 Production Technology	249
13. The Path of Capital Accumulation	254
13.1 The Period of Post-War Restoration	255
13.2 Profit Rates, Capital Stock, and Net Investment	257
13.3 The Path of Capital Accumulation	261
13.4 Some Reservations	262
13.5 Statistical Appendix	264

Contents

ix

14. Critical Efforts behind Japan's Post-War Economic Take-off	270
14.1 Foreign Capital and Aid	270
14.2 Industrial Policies and the Role of Social Overhead Capital	278
14.3 Import Restrictions and Tariff Policy	295
14.4 The Supply of Food and Labour	299
English References	318
Japanese References	320
INDEX	326