

TRADING NATIONS

Jews and Venetians in the Early Modern Eastern Mediterranean

BY

BENJAMIN ARBEL

E.J. BRILL
LEIDEN · NEW YORK · KÖLN
1995

CONTENTS

Preface.....	ix
Illustrations.....	xiii
Abbreviations and archival terms.....	xv
Introduction.....	1
1. Venice and the Jewish Merchants of Istanbul in the Sixteenth Century.....	13
2. Abraham Castro Multiplied: Venetian Traders and Jewish Customs Farmers in the Levant, c. 1530 - c. 1540.....	29
3. The Jews in Venice and the Ottoman Menace, 1566-1571.....	55
4. Medicine, Diplomacy and Trade: Solomon Ashkenazi and Venetian-Ottoman Relations, c. 1564-1573.....	77
5. The Eastern Trade, Solomon Ashkenazi and the Readmission of the Jews to Venice in 1573.....	87
6. The Pandora Box of Ḥayyim Saruq's Bankruptcy.....	95
7. Trade, Espionage and Inquisition: Ḥayyim Saruq's Resurgence.....	145
8. Jewish Shipowners in the Early Modern Eastern Mediterranean.....	169
Conclusion.....	185

Appendix.....	195
I. The report of Giovanni Alvisè Bembo, captain of the merchant galleys returning from Alexandria, presented in Venice on 19 February 1531.....	196
II. The Senate's decision exempting goods originating from and destined to 'Upper and Lower Romania' from custom duties, and inviting the Levantine Jewish Merchants to reside in Venice, 2 June 1541.....	197
III. Agreement for the constitution of a partnership between Ḥayyim Saruq and Joseph di Segura, Venice, 18 Tishri 5325.....	200
IV. Copy of a letter sent by Giovanni Miches, alias Don Joseph Nassf, to the Jewish Merchants detained in Venice during the Cyprus war [April-June 1571, or slightly later].....	202
V. Documents pertaining to the compensation awarded to Joshua Davizzolo and Joseph Marzan, Jewish Levantine merchants detained in Venice during the Cyprus war, 1570-74.....	204
VI. The Code-Book of Ḥayyim Saruq, 1571.....	210
Sources and Bibliography.....	217
Index.....	231