

THE NEW URBAN LANDSCAPE

The Redefinition of City Form in Nineteenth-Century America

DAVID SCHUYLER

THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY PRESS
Baltimore and London

CONTENTS

Illustrations	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction	1
Part One. CHANGING CONCEPTIONS OF URBAN FORM
I. Flawed Visions: The Lessons of Washington and New York	11
II. Toward a Redefinition of Urban Form and Culture	24
III. The Didactic Landscape: Rural Cemeteries	37
Part Two. THE EVOLUTION OF THE URBAN PARK
IV. The Ideology of the Public Park	59
V. The Naturalistic Landscape: Central Park	77
VI. Cities and Parks: The Lessons of Central Park	101
VII. Parks, Parkways, and Park Systems	126
Part Three. THE NEW URBAN LANDSCAPE
VIII. Urban Decentralization and the Domestic Landscape	149
IX. The New City: A House with Many Rooms	167
X. Transformation: The Neoclassical Cityscape	180
Notes	197
Bibliographical Essay	227
Index	233