

Conversations with Gabriel García Márquez

Edited by

Gene H. Bell-Villada

University Press of Mississippi
Jackson

Contents

Introduction	ix
Chronology	xix
And Now, Two Hundred Years of Solitude	Ernesto González Bermejo 3
Gabriel García Márquez	Rita Guibert 31
The Yellow Trolley Car in Barcelona: An Interview	William Kennedy 59
Journey Back to the Source	El Manifiesto 79
Playboy Interview: Gabriel García Márquez	Claudia Dreifus 93
Building a Compass	Gene H. Bell-Villada 133
Love and Age: A Talk with García Márquez	Marlise Simons 141
“Soap Operas Are Wonderful. I’ve Always Wanted to Write One”	Susana Cato 148
García Márquez on Love, Plagues, and Politics	Marlise Simons 154
The Best Years of His Life: An Interview with Gabriel García Márquez	Marlise Simons 163
The General in His Labyrinth Is a “Vengeful” Book	María Elvira Samper 168
On the Lot with García Márquez	Andrew Paxman 181
Gabo Changes Jobs	Susana Cato 184
Days of Magic Realism: Gabriel García Márquez Is a Fantastic Figure Himself, As a Rare Visit Proves	David Streitfeld 191
Index	197