

RUSSIA AND THE IDEA OF EUROPE

A study in identity and international relations

Iver B. Neumann

London and New York

CONTENTS

Series editor's preface	ix
Preface	xi
Acknowledgements	xvii
Note on the text	xviii
1 INTRODUCTION	1
2 THE NAPOLEONIC WARS AND THE DECEMBRIST UPRISING	13
3 OFFICIAL NATIONALITY, 'SLAVOPHILES', 'WESTERNISERS'	28
4 FROM THE SPRINGTIME OF NATIONS TO THE ASSASSINATION OF TSAR ALEXANDER II	40
5 FROM THE ASSASSINATION OF TSAR ALEXANDER II TO THE FIRST WORLD WAR	61
6 FROM THE FIRST WORLD WAR TO DE-STALINISATION	95
From the November coup to the Russo-Polish War	102
From the Russo-Polish to the Second World War	116
7 FROM DE-STALINISATION TO PERESTROYKA	131
From de-Stalinisation to the ousting of Khrushchev	132
From the ousting of Khrushchev to perestroika	141
8 PERESTROYKA AND AFTER	158
Perestroika	160
After perestroika	179
9 CONCLUSION	194

CONTENTS

Notes	211
Bibliography	223
Index	243