

The Russian-Jewish Tradition

Intellectuals
Historians
Revolutionaries

Brian Horowitz

Introduction by William Craft Brumfield

Boston
2017

Table of Contents

Introduction: William Craft Brumfield	vi
PART I: Russian-Jewish Historians and Historiography	1
Chapter 1 The Return of the Heder among Russian-Jewish Education Experts, 1840–1917	2
Chapter 2 ‘Building a Fragile Edifice’: A History of Russian-Jewish Historical Institutions, 1860–1914	19
Chapter 3 Myths and Counter-Myths about Odessa’s Jewish Intelligentsia during the Late Tsarist Period	38
Chapter 4 Saul Borovoi’s Survival: An Odessa Tale about a Jewish Historian in Soviet Times	53
Chapter 5 The Ideological Challenges of S. M. Dubnov in Emigration: Autonomism and Zionism, Europe and Palestine	70
PART II: Russian–Jewish Intelligentsia’s Cultural Vibrancy	85
Chapter 6 Semyon An-sky—Dialogic Writer	86
Chapter 7 Russian-Jewish Writers Face Pogroms, 1880–1914	111
Chapter 8 M. O. Gershenzon, Alexander Pushkin, the Bible, and the Flaws of Jewish Nationalism	123
Chapter 9 Battling for Self-Definition in Soviet Literature: Boris Eikhenbaum’s Jewish Question	139
Chapter 10 Vladimir Jabotinsky and the Mystique of 1905	156
Chapter 11 Vladimir Jabotinsky and Violence	177
PART III: Jewish Heritage in Russian Perception	197
Chapter 12 Vladimir Solov’ev and the Jews: A View from Today	198
Chapter 13 Fear and Stereotyping: Vasily Rozanov and Jewish Menace	215
Bibliography	233
Index	275