

Michael MccGwire

MILITARY
OBJECTIVES
IN SOVIET FOREIGN POLICY

THE BROOKINGS INSTITUTION
Washington, D.C.

Contents

1. Know Your Enemy	1
The Analytical Approach	4
Organization of the Book	9
PART ONE: THE GENESIS OF SOVIET STRATEGIC OBJECTIVES
2. The Evolution of Soviet Military Doctrine	13
The Postwar Years: 1945–60	13
Military Doctrine in Flux: 1960–66	22
The Reformulation of Military Doctrine	29
3. The Restructuring of Soviet Objectives	36
The Hierarchy of Strategic Objectives—The 1960s	37
The Shift in Strategic Objectives—The 1970s	42
Implications of the Shift in Strategic Objectives	48
The Shaping of Policy since 1976	59
4. Shaping the Land Battle	67
Postwar Military Objectives	67
The Evolution of Objectives	71
Contemporary Considerations	77
The Overall Concept of Operations	88
5. The Implications at Sea	90
The Soviet Approach to Deterrence	90
The Development of Sea-based Strategic Delivery Systems	93

Implications for the Navy's Mission Structure	102
Shaping of Naval Policy since 1975	110
The Future	113

PART TWO: THE OPERATIONAL PLAN

6. Governing Concepts	117
Theaters of Military Action	118
The Principle of Combined Arms	121
Combined Arms and Naval Operations	123
Theory of Deep Operations	125
The Soviet Approach to War	126
7. The Euro-Atlantic Region	128
The Western Theater of Military Action	128
The Southwestern Theater of Military Action	139
The Northwestern and Arctic Ocean Theaters of Military Action	146
The Atlantic Ocean Theater of Military Action	156
8. The Asian-Pacific Region	161
Major Strategic Considerations	163
The Maritime Zones of the Far Eastern Theater of Military Action	170
The U.S. Concept of Horizontal Escalation	176
Distant Theaters of Maritime Operations	178
9. The Indo-Arabian Region	183
The Persian Gulf and Surrounding Territory	185
The Red Sea and Surrounding Territory	196
The Arabian Sea	203

PART THREE: CONTEMPORARY CONCERNS

10. Military Objectives in the Third World	213
War-Related Requirements	214
The Competition between Social Systems	216
The Role of the Military Instrument	220
Grounds for a Change in Policy	227

11. Military Objectives and Arms Control	232
The Objective of Avoiding World War	233
Wartime Requirements—Intercontinental Systems	234
Wartime Requirements—Theater Weapons	244
Negotiations on Nuclear Weapons: 1981–83	247
Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces	249
The Strategic Defense Initiative	262
The Soviet Approach to Arms Control	266
12. The Changing International Environment	283
The Carter Administration	285
The First Reagan Administration	288
The Andropov Declaration	294
13. A Potential Decision Period: 1983–85	307
The Debate about the Imminence of War	308
The Backdrop to Decisionmaking	313
The Structure of International Relations	315
Overview	331
14. Overview and Implications	335
A Summary of the Argument	335
Problems of Understanding	353
Policy Implications	366

PART FOUR: APPENDIXES

Appendix A: Identifying the December 1966 Decision	381
Appendix B: Operational Requirements and Naval Building Programs	406
Appendix C: The Debate over Naval Roles and Missions	448
Appendix D: Development of the Strategic Rocket Forces	477
Index	521