ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Many people have helped with the production of this book, from thesis to final draft. Stanley Glass, Margaret Canovan and Andy Dobson at Keele University all gave excellent advice. Encouragement given by Jeremy Richardson and Dave Judge of Strathclyde University, and John Foster of Paisley College cannot be overestimated. I have also benefited from the valuable and constructive comments of Richard Bellamy, Richard Gunn, Desmond King, Nick Rengger and Jeremy Waldron. Along the way, Mark Cowling, Ian Forbes and Graeme Duncan have all offered useful advice.

Earlier versions of some chapters, or parts of chapters, have appeared in the following: 'Mill and Human Nature', Chapter 3 of Politics and Human Nature, ed. I. Forbes and S. Smith, Frances Pinter, London, 1983; 'Marx and the Individual in the Grundrisse' in Approaches to Marx, ed. M. Cowling and L. Wilde, Open University Press, Milton Keynes, 1989; and "'Some will be more equal than others", J. S. Mill on democracy, freedom, and the labouring classes', in Archives for Philosophy of Law and Social Philosophy, forthcoming, Winter 1990-91.

Finally, I would like to thank my parents and Lucy for their constant and invaluable support. I dedicate this book to them.
